Police And 300 Alleged Communists Clash In Boston

QUELL RIOTS NEAR LABOR CONVENTION

Extra Officers Charge On Crowd With Clubs Before Order Is Gained

BANNERS DISPLAYED

Workers' Conclave Backs Postal Employees' Battle For Increase In Wages

By FRANK MURPHY (United Press Staff Correspondent) BOSTON, Oct. 14.—(UP)—Police clashed with a group of 300 men and women, described as communists, here today, just outside Hotel Bradford, where the 50th annual convention of the American Federation of Labor is in progress. For fully five minutes wild scenes were enacted at Tremont street and Shawmut avenue as several members of the Communist group attempted to deliver speeches to the crowd.

Not until extra police arrived and charged the throng with drawn clubs was the demonstration quelled.

Several men and women demonstrators appeared to have suffered bruises and scratches but none was believed seriously hurt.

It was shortly before noon when the Communist group, 300 strong, appeared outside the hotel where the labor federation was in session.

Some of the marchers carried banners and placards bearing such words as "Vote Communist," "Demand Social Insurance," "Work or Wages," and "Help for Unemployed."

Police stationed around the hostelry attempted in vain to disperse the unauthorized parade.

A wagon load of policemen reached the scene as two men in the Communist group attempted to make speeches. They were placed in a patrol wagon.

Two others took their places and started to address the crowd. Many of the 300 Communists set upon the 20 policemen as these would-be speakers also were put into the wagon.

One policeman suffered scratches on his face at the hands of a woman demonstrator whom he was trying to subdue.

A free-for-all battle of fists and clubs that lasted five minutes ended when several of the demonstrators were taken away in patrol wagons.

The convention today unanimously adopted the following resolutions.

Demanding immediate and favorable action by congress on the Welch bill, which would regulate immigration of Filipinos.

Urging a law under which only civilian mechanics would be employed on federal penal institution construction work.

Urging speedy enactment of the Kendall-La Follette bill which would provide a shorter week for postal employees.

Calling for a maintenance by the government of employment standards at least as high as those prevailing in private industry.

Instructing the federation's executive council to continue its efforts to assist postal laborers in their fight for increased wages.

Endorsing the bill, now pending in congress, which would provide for the modernizing of the battle-ships New Mexico, Mississippi and Idaho.

Friendship Of Dog Sends Owner To Jail

CHICAGO, Oct. 14.—(UP)—Joseph Galiani's best friend is his dog. That was one of the reasons Galiani was in jail today.

Police raided a garage and found a still. Near the still was a dog, but, apparently, neither he nor the still had an owner.

An officer took the dog outside, where a large crowd had gathered. The dog saw Galiani, one of the "interested spectators," ran to him, wagged his tail, and barked joyfully.

Questioned, Galiani admitted he owned the dog—also the still.

FEDERAL ARMY ADVANCING IN BRAZIL TODAY

Claims Victory at Rebels' Stronghold In South

By G. A. POWELL (United Press Staff Correspondent) (Copyright 1930, by United Press)

ITARARE, Sao Paulo - Parana Frontier, Brazil, Oct. 14.—Federal troops claimed a victory over revolutionary forces today in an encounter at Ponte De Senes on the border of Parana state, where the defense of the government stronghold and capital has been established.

Gen. Miguel Da Costa, commander of the revolutionary troops in Parana, was reported killed, falling early in the battle and leaving the rebels leaderless. Many rebels were reported dead or wounded. Only six federals were wounded.

Brazilian government troops continued their advance southward against the rebels today while federal forces occupied most of the Sao Paulo-Parana border, from Saito Grande to Ribeira.

Troops commanded by Colonel Paes Andrade were reported approaching the rebel stronghold, Jacuarahyva, in Parana. There was no evidence of the reported rebel concentrations on the border, and federal officials attributed the reports to rebel propaganda spread by radio.

Itarara, a small agricultural town, has assumed the appearance of a military outpost. Volunteers arrived from Sao Paulo and the entire region was filled with federal troops. Civil life virtually was at a standstill, as trains brought troops and supplies into the area.

The federal volunteers, regular troops and residents in the concentration one went about the preparations for an attack on the rebels with an air of confidence and determination. There were no outward signs of frantic enthusiasm such as that reported from the south by rebel sources, but the federal forces obviously were loyal and confident.

Reports indicated that federal successes on the northern and southern fronts, the two points from which the rebels hoped to converge on Sao Paulo and the federal capital, had checked rebel advances. Federals were in possession of Jaguara, establishing control of the railway between Sao Paulo and Minas Geraes, where the rebels have established headquarters in Central Brazil.

The federals continued their

MACHINE GUN USED IN STORE ROBBERY

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 14.—(UP)—A machine gun was used by two men in the holdup of a Safeway store here today. The bandits escaped with $200 in cash.

The men entered the store, one carrying the weapon, known as a "cho-cho" machine gun. "This looks small, boys, but it bores big holes," he advised employees.

The machine gun was set up in a place to sweep the store. Two employees were bound while a third was forced to open the safe before he was trussed.

After looting the safe the bandits strolled leisurely from the store and fled in an automobile.

Authorities were of the opinion that the machine gun was one taken in the burglary of a San Bernardino arsenal several weeks ago.

M'Adoo Will Give Young His Support

Law Enforcement Stressed In Open Letter to Candidate

WILLIAM GIBBS McADOO today gave his full approval and support to the campaign of Milton K. Young for governor.

In no uncertain terms he assured the law enforcement standard-bearer of his desire to aid his candidacy.

Addressing an open letter to Milton K. Young, McAdoo said in part:

"I am glad to assure you of my support.

"While there are a large number of issues of vital importance . . . there is in addition one issue which goes to the vitals of constitutional government and the safety and security of life, liberty and property of every citizen of the republic. That issue is obedience to law, without which no government can endure.

" . . . You are standing unequivocally, for honest and orderly government, under which the rights and property of every citizen, high and low, will get the fullest measure of protection."

Supporters of the Young cause received the firm endorsement of McAdoo with enthusiasm, greeting it as one of outstanding points in their campaign.

The gubernatorial candidate returned to Los Angeles yesterday after a speaking tour in Northern California and the bay regions where supporters of his campaign are said to be rapidly increasing.

McAdoo's letter follows:

Dear Mr. Young:

On my return a few days ago from my vacation, I found your letter of September 29, in regard to the platform adopted by the Democratic state convention and your candidacy for the governorship of California.

I am glad to assure you of my support and to say that I heartily approve the platform adopted by the state convention and the excellent ticket nominated in the recent primary.

While there are, of course, a large number of state issues of vital importance, demanding a high order of intelligence, ability and integrity in the chief executive of the state, there is, in addition, one issue which goes to the vitals of constitutional government and the safety and security of the life, liberty and property of every citizen of the republic. That issue is obedience to law, without which no government can endure.

The chief reason, in my opinion, for the amazing prevalence of crime throughout the United States is the cowardice of public officials, their craven toleration of graft and, in many instances, their secret alliances with the criminal elements from which they draw both financial and political support. This condition is dangerous beyond description. If it is to be averted, we must elect honest men to public office—men who are not afraid to fight crime and enforce law.

DENY HOOVER VIOLATED OATH IN HIS LETTER TO LUTHERANS

By PAUL R. MALLON (United Press Staff Correspondent) WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—(UP)—Friends of President Hoover moved today to refute the allegation by the Rev. John J. Burke, general secretary of the national Catholic Welfare conference, that President Hoover had violated "the spirit if not the letter of his oath of office" in a recent letter to the Lutherans of America.

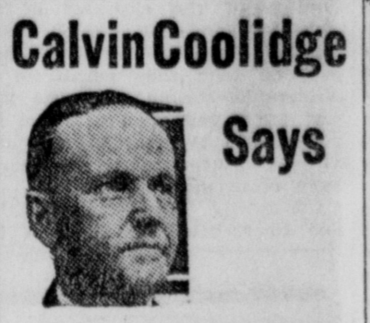

They made public a private telegram which President Hoover sent to George Cardinal Mundelein, Catholic bishop of Chicago on Sept. 24, expressing cordial greetings to the national Eucharistic conference.

The White House is aroused at suggestions that President Hoover's recent utterances could be interpreted as opposed to religious tolerance.

The attitude of Mr. Hoover was made clear in a statement issued last night by George Akerson, his secretary.

"Any such suggestion or implication as that made by Father Burke is an injustice both to the president's own sentiments and the complete religious tolerance he has always felt and has always advocated both publicly and privately," Akerson said.

Calvin Coolidge Says

By CALVIN COOLIDGE Former President of the United States NORTHAMPTON, Mass., Oct. 14.—We have just completed the first decade of national woman suffrage. Generally it has revealed that while women are not eager for public office they administer it successfully.

Not all the claims made about the value they would add to political life have been substantiated. Party alignments have been little changed. If a purification of politics has not yet been perceptible, probably public life was already reasonably clean.

But women voters had a very considerable influence on party platforms and governmental policy, especially on the humane and social welfare sides. Education is better served. Ten years are too short for final results. The women are particularly effective on the conservative side of affairs. They are still the homemakers. They look to the future. They think of conditions not only for themselves but for their posterity.

The great benefit of their vote will be in bringing to the aid of the state that spiritual support which they have so long given to the church. They are devoted, steadfast, sensible. They will not follow radical proposals, but will be influenced by moral values. Nothing can be safer for the commonwealth than the informed judgment of the mothers of the land.

MORROW HOPES TO SEE HOOVER ELECTED AGAIN

Says Rumor He Is Seeking Executive Post Not Authorized

NEWARK, N. J., Oct. 14.—(UP)—Dwight W. Morrow, rumored in the east as a presidential possibility in 1932, believes President Hoover will be renominated and reelected.

Although the former ambassador is known to be a close friend of Mr. Hoover, prominent New Jersey leaders consider him a potential candidate for the White House, possibly in the next campaign.

Morrow, in a speech opening his campaign for election to the senate, said such statements were unauthorized.

"I look forward with pleasure and with confidence to the opportunity of voting two years from now for the renomination and reelection of Herbert Hoover," he said.

Morrow met the "prosperity" is

LABOR UNREST FACES GERMAN LEADERS TODAY

Strike of 140,000 Metal Workers Ordered Tomorrow

By FREDERICK KUH (United Press Staff Correspondent) BERLIN, Oct. 14.—A dangerous surge of labor unrest increased the government's critical political position today.

With the capital heavily patrolled by police guards who occasionally clashed with extremist political groups, the Berlin metal workers—140,000 strong and the backbone of the German labor unions—voted 90 per cent in favor of a strike to start tomorrow.

The employers are prepared, if necessary, to prolong the struggle with the strikers. Stefan Oppenheimer, general counsel for the Berlin Metal Manufacturers' association, told the United Press.

"We believe the strikers' purpose is to prevent a nationwide six per cent wage reduction as foreseen by Chancellor Heinrich Brüning's financial reform program," Oppenheimer said.

"The metal workers' strike is merely a signal for resistance everywhere to the curtailments, and undoubtedly is an effort to exert pressure on the government to make concessions to labor."

Meanwhile, the capital remained under considerable tension as a result of the Fascist rioting and anti-Jewish disorders which accompanied the opening of the Reichstag yesterday. Disturbances were renewed at noon after a tranquil morning. Police arrested two Fascists on a charge of assault. A protesting crowd gathered around the arrested men, but strong police forces were on hand to check disorders.

President Paul von Hindenburg, veteran imperial military leader whose retirement was sacrificed to the presidency of the republic, appeared to be the strongest figure in the political crisis and it was understood he was ready to establish a dictatorial regime under the constitution if necessary. The president gave audience to the Prussian Socialist leader, Dr. Otto Braun, considered by many politicians as the strongest figure in the party, and they discussed the situation.

President von Hindenburg was expected in case of the defeat of the Brüning government, to appoint a non-partisan cabinet of experts to meet the economic crisis.

Another pressing problem for the government was the withdrawal of support of the economic party, with 23 deputies, while the Fascists continued their efforts to alienate the Socialists from the supporting cabinet by electing Ernest Scholz, a Volks party leader, as speaker of the Reichstag to replace the Socialist, Paul Lebe.

The local report, ostensibly of Washington origin, had it that Congressman Phil Swing was scheduled to be appointed Johnson's successor in the upper house.

Senator Johnson recently resumed his affiliation with the San Francisco law firm of Theodore Roche and Mat Sullivan.

Heavy Rains Make Roads Impassable

Transportation Is Blocked Through Western Oklahoma

DALLAS, Tex., Oct. 14.—(UP)—Streams and rivers, flooded by torrential rains of the past 72 hours, threatened today to inundate portions of central West Texas and western Oklahoma.

Merchants at Brownwood, Tex., removed stocks from lower floors of their stores as Pecan Bayou, fed by flooded streams and creeks, reached its highest point since 1908. The bayou was rising at the rate of a foot an hour early today.

Danger was believed past at Brady, Texas, where for the second time within a week, residents living near Brady creek were forced last night to flee their homes. Cabins of two tourist camps were washed away.

Roads throughout central West Texas were either washed out or made impassable. More than 400 head of sheep were drowned at Christoval when the South Concho river left its banks.

All transportation facilities were brought to a standstill in western Oklahoma by rains of cloudburst proportions that fell throughout the entire Canadian river drainage district. Three railroad bridges were washed out near Thomas. Railroad service was expected to be restored late today, however.

WILBUR TO REMAIN IN HOOVER CABINET

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—(UP)—Secretary of the Interior Ray Lyman Wilbur will remain in President Hoover's cabinet indefinitely, it was announced at the White House today.

The announcement came after intimations in the university publication at Leland Stanford, where Wilbur more than a year ago was granted a leave of absence as president, that Wilbur would be removed from the latter post if he remained in Washington.

President Hoover intimated he would exercise his authority as a trustee of the university to enable Wilbur to retain his university post while serving in the cabinet.

EVANSTON, Ill., Oct. 14.—(UP)—One hundred and fifty co-eds attended classes today, limping or displaying bandaged arms, after they had been vaccinated upon the orders of President Walter Dill Scott. It's their penalty for dancing with football heroes.

Orders for vaccination of the co-eds was received when it was learned that the girls had attended a dance on Saturday night given for members of the football squad. 'LITTLE' JAKE FLEAGLE SHOT AND CAPTURED

BRANSON, Mo., Oct. 14.—(UP)—"Little Jake Fleagle, the west's most hunted desperado, was shot down and captured on a train here today when he refused to surrender to officers who had converged upon him from four states.

"Little Jake" fell with a bullet through his stomach when he whipped out two guns in answer to a command to raise his hands.

One of the 23 officers who had come to trap him beat him to the draw and he was carried unconscious from the passenger car.

The man said to be Fleagle, sought throughout this country and Mexico since he and his brothers were implicated in the Lamar, Colo., bank raid and murders, was felled by a bullet from an officer's gun when the bandit suspect sought to board a Missouri Pacific train here today.

His captors said he reached for his hip pocket "to shoot it out" when they ordered him to throw up his hands.

Eight officers, including detectives from Colorado Springs, Kansas City and Los Angeles, and federal postoffice inspectors, met the man on a tip that he was hiding overnight in Branson.

The officers arrived here by train and as they alighted, bandit suspect stepped up to board the train. He was recognized by the group.

"Come on, Jake, you might as well give up," he was warned.

Instead, according to the officers, the man reached for a gun. A volley of shots from the officers' group answered the move and the desperado fell with a bullet in his stomach.

The wounded man was taken to a hospital where his condition was reported critical.

Officers revealed they had been informed Fleagle had driven into Branson last night in an automobile and had planned to head south by train today.

They did not divulge details of their information nor where Fleagle's current trail was picked up.

"Little Jake" Fleagle was the last survivor of the Lamar bank bandit gang.

His brother, Ralph Fleagle, and two confederates, Howard Royston and George Absher, were hanged in the Canon City penitentiary last July for murders committed in connection with the robbery of the

PROTEST NOT TO POSTPONE BIG PROJECT

Hoover Says Government To Aid In Settlement Of Arizona's Complaints

ASKS CO-OPERATION

President's Statement Is Result of Court Edict Authorizing Early Work

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—(UP)—The government will move forward immediately at all possible speed and begin construction of Boulder Dam, President Hoover announced today.

The announcement came as the result of yesterday's supreme court decision authorizing the government to go ahead with the work authorizing Arizona's protest.

The announcement followed the decision of Comptroller General McCarl overruling Arizona's objections that appropriations for the project were illegal, and authorizing the work to proceed.

Arizona won her right yesterday to enter suit in the supreme court challenging constitutionality of the Boulder Dam act, but this will not halt beginning of construction.

At the same time Mr. Hoover said the government in an effort to get an amicable settlement would help expedite the settlement of points of law raised by Arizona.

The president also expressed the hope that the various states would get together and co-operate in an effort to push the project to an early successful conclusion.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—(UP)—The Southern Sierras Power company has been awarded the contract for supplying power for the construction of Boulder dam in Nevada. It was learned at the interior department today. This concern submitted the lowest bid, officials said.

Veterans' Organizations Seek Use Of St. Ann's Inn

BOARD TAKES REQUEST UNDER CONSIDERATION

Request for use of the dining room and kitchen at St. Ann's Inn, which has been purchased by the county and which is to be used in relieving congestion in county offices, was presented to the board of supervisors today by representatives of the Grand Army of the Republic, Spanish American War Veterans, Veterans of Foreign Wars and other veterans' organizations. The use of the quarters was asked as meeting places for the veterans' organizations named and also including the Disabled American Veterans.

The matter was presented to the board by H. E. Smith, chaplain and past commander of the Santa Ana post of the G. A. R.; Howard Wassum, of the Veterans of Foreign Wars and Spanish American War Veterans; J. C. Farrar, of the United Spanish American War Veterans, and Frank Rowe, of the Spanish American War Veterans. Otto Jacobs also appeared before the board later in the morning, bringing endorsement of the request of members of these organizations from the American Legion, of which he is a member and past commander.

The request presented by the representatives of the veterans' organizations called to the attention of the board the fact that they were empowered by the legislature to assist in providing meeting places for veterans' organizations and that they had taken steps in this direction in connection with a number of American Legion posts, and that the quarters they asked for were particularly suitable and could be provided at no extra expense.

The various organizations stated that they could use the same quarters and that a large number of residents of the county would be accommodated by granting the request for rooms in the inn when it is taken over by the county, which it is anticipated will be soon after December 1.

J. M. Talcott, a former officer of the G. A. R. post, also was a member of the delegation that appeared before the board in connection with the request.

The matter was taken under consideration by the board.

Friends of the president indicated Mr. Hoover might consider the phraseology of the Lutheran letter unfortunate and inexpressive of his sentiments in at least one particular, but that he was prepared to accept full responsibility for it. It was prepared by a secretary.

Mr. Hoover is interested in correcting any misinterpretations of the document, it was said, especially in view of some similar editorial criticism because of a phrase in his Kings Mountain speech last week, in which he said this country is "largely religious in origin."

The Akerson reply was made public a few hours after the national Catholic Welfare council quoted Father Burke in part as follows:

"It does matter very much to the whole constitutional structure of our country and its institutions, that the president of all the people, who is called by virtue of his office to respect the religious rights of all, congratulates one particular religious body on the change it introduced from older conceptions of religion and government, and declares that we as a nation should commemorate the Protestant persons and the events from which 'these mighty forces shaping our country have sprung.'"

Burke, in his statement, said the president's message to the Lutherans was "an insult to many millions of American citizens," and Mr. Hoover's friends were moved because of the implication that the chief executive had deviated from the principle of religious tolerance.

Burke objected particularly to the president singling out the Lutherans and congratulating them on "the changes it introduced from older conceptions of religion and government," and also declared the president was "historically inaccurate" in his statement.

The telegram to Cardinal Mundelein, which was read to about 40,000 persons assembled at the Eucharistic conference at Omaha, was made public by friends of the president to prove that he had not singled out the Lutherans and is guided by religious tolerance.

The message to Cardinal Mundelein follows:

"I will be obliged if you will express my cordial greetings to the meeting this evening of the National Eucharistic congress at which I am informed you will preside, and my appreciation of the value of spiritual ideals and of religious observance in the life of the nation which are indispensable foundations of the social order and of enduring political institutions."

campaign against Bello Horizonte, capital of Minas Geraes, where the rebels have been firmly established since the outbreak of the revolt.

Brazilian federal troops in the field were unofficially estimated at between 40,000 and 50,000 today, with the time limit for response of conscripts which will give the government some 420,000 men, ending tomorrow.

Rebels claimed a decisive victory in the first real battle of the campaign, fought on the Sao Paulo-Parana border. Federal troops were concentrating at Itare, ready to advance against the revolutionists in the state of Parana.

Rebels reported the capture of Florianopolis, federal headquarters in South Brazil, but the report was unconfirmed.

Federals claimed consistent gains in the state of Minas Geraes. Recruiting of volunteer battalions continued in Rio de Janeiro and Sao Paulo.

Dr. Getulio Vargas, leader of the revolt, was given an ovation at Santa Maria, where he stopped en route to assume command of the southern forces marching on Sao Paulo and the federal district.

sue raised by his Democratic opponent, State Senator Alexander Simpson. Speaking of the economic depression, he said he recognized the tendencies of political parties to exaggerate the accomplishments of their own administrations and to depreciate the achievements of their opponents.

"All parties in the past, including the Republican party, have been wont to credit themselves with whatever good times happen during their term of power, without looking for the deeper reasons that underlie the ebb and flow of prosperity," he said.

"Any party which takes credit for the rain must not be surprised if its opponent blame it for the drought. But no Republican need shrink from a discussion of the commercial depression and the conduct of the Republican administration in regard to it."

"The federal government cannot of itself bring back prosperity. It can, however, maintain those conditions which make industrial recovery possible."

Morrow praised Hoover's action in coping with the depression.

The former ambassador to Mexico reiterated his liquor stand although the prohibition issue virtually is removed from the campaign, as Simpson is a wet. Morrow favors repeal of the 18th amendment and granting of power to the states.

LITTLE JAKE FLEAGLE SHOT AND CAPTURED

First National bank at Lamar, Colo., in May, 1928.

A. N. Parrish, president of the bank, and his son, J. F. Parrish, were shot down by the bandits when they robbed the bank of nearly $200,000 in cash and securities.

Royston was shot in the face during the fight, receiving a serious wound. In fleeing, the outlaws took two tellers, E. A. Lundgren and E. A. Kesinger, as hostages.

As they fled east toward Kansas, Lundgren was released to lighten the load in the automobile. In western Kansas the outlaws took refuge in an old shack.

They called Dr. W. W. Weininger, of Dighton, Kan., to treat Royston's wounds. When Royston was definitely on the road to recovery, Weininger begged to be permitted to go back to his family.

Little Jake Fleagle led him from the shack and shot him in the back as he ran for his freedom, according to the story told by the other bandits after their capture.

Kesinger met a similar fate. He was shot in the back after Jake, the leader of the outlaw gang, had told him he could go home.

From the shack in western Kansas, the four outlaws scattered and it was many months before the trail of any of them was picked up.

A little more than a year ago officers received a tip that Jake and Ralph Fleagle were in hiding in Kankakee, Ill. Ralph was captured, but Jake eluded the officers.

Ralph confessed in an effort to escape the gallows and implicated Royston and Abshier. The three were tried at Lamar and received the death penalty.

Jake Fleagle was reported as having been seen at various times in Canada, on the Pacific coast, and in Mexico.

Always the luck that was with him in Kankakee followed him until his encounter with the officers at Branson today.

Koenig reported that he did not see the woman crossing the street until his car struck her. He was going at a slow speed at the time and was able to stop the car almost immediately, he said.

Mrs. Ford was taken to her home by Deputy Sheriff O. K. Fordy and Mrs. Earl Ladd, of 1116 Hickory street.

MCADOO WILL GIVE YOUNG HIS SUPPORT

We have a right to assume that respect for and obedience to the laws of the state and the nation are desired and demanded by every citizen, without regard to party affiliation. Crime and disregard for law, if tolerated by debauched public opinion or permitted by weak and servile public officials, injures every citizen, Democrat and Republican alike.

As I understand it, you are standing, unequivocally, for honest and orderly government, under which the rights and property of every citizen, high and low, will get the fullest measure of protection; for a thorough investigation of the expenses of the state government which have reached such extraordinary proportions that they constitute an intolerable burden upon the people; for a reduction in those expenses wherever it is found that waste and incompetency, or worse, have occasioned them.

Constantly increasing taxation, due to reckless, unwise and improper expenditure, cannot be endured indefinitely. We must put a curb on taxation. It is reaching ominous proportions, especially in our big cities.

Questions affecting the welfare of labor, problems of unemployment, agriculture and our mineral and other resources, require a high degree of honesty and intelligence in the state's chief executive.

I feel confident that you will measure up to the qualifications required for this great office and that you will, if elected, secure highly needed reforms in our state administration.

Sincerely yours,

W. G. MCADOO.

POLICE SUSPECT DIAMOND'S OWN GANG OF SHOOTING HIM

Diamond and the two men probably talked over business matters, Mulrooney said, and the conference ended when the visitors made a definite proposal to Diamond concerning allocation of profits. Diamond apparently rejected their demands and was shot. Police, however, were not confining themselves to one theory, so orders went out today to find "Bully" Cook, well known race track habitue. Detectives are seeking to develop the theory that Diamond obtained large loans recently.

CLARK—To Mr. and Mrs. John Clark, of 925 East Third street, Santa Ana, at Orange County hospital, October 13, 1930, a daughter.

DEATHS

A WORD OF COMFORT

Let's frankly and courageously cast aside any traditional conceptions regarding the nature of the future life, which are repellent and unlovely or intellectually untenable. They strike at the root of our knowledge of a God of Love; they simply cannot be.

Think not merely of what you would like, but rather of what you believe ought to be in the next room of our existence. The best you could dream of will be surpassed; the worst you fear will be transformed into something salutary. God created you to become a fine and splendid character; whatever will further that development must be the content of Paradise.

Live earnestly and eagerly in the light of this conception.

TWO MEN HELD AS MRS. OLSON PASSES TODAY

Mrs. Chris Olson, of Los Angeles, one of four victims of an alleged hit-and-run driver Sunday night near Oceanside, died at the San Clemente hospital at 7 o'clock this morning, in spite of heroic methods used by physicians when it was seen that she was sinking.

Roy Divil, proprietor of the Divil Undertaking parlors at San Clemente, gave a pint of his blood in a transfusion which took place last night.

Coroner Charles Brown announced that he would hold an inquest at the Divil parlors tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

In the meantime, two men, Daniel Lohnes, 48, owner of the Los Angeles Lime company, who resides in Beverly Hills, and Lee Bohmer, 29, a truck driver, of Los Angeles, were being held in the Oceanside city jail, booked on charges of failure to stop and render aid after an accident. Bail of $1000 has been placed in their case, but at noon today neither had been able to raise it, according to Oceanside officials.

The two men were arrested near Tustin several hours after the accident by Orange county deputy sheriffs, after a call had come from Oceanside asking Sheriff Sam Jernigan to apprehend the men for failure to stop after the accident. Both Lohnes and Bohmer claim they know nothing of the accident.

In the car with Mrs. Olson was her husband and Mr. and Mrs. Justin Rasmussen. All three are seriously injured. Mrs. Rasmussen suffered a severely crushed chest and a scalp injury. Her condition is critical today, according to attendants at the San Clemente hospital, where all four of the victims were taken soon after the accident.

Head injuries were received by both Olson and Rasmussen and both have possible fractures of the skull, it was reported. No further deaths from the accident are expected, however, it was reported.

According to information obtained here, the car, alleged to have been driven by Lohnes side-swiped the Olson car, causing it to run off the road and overturn, pinning the two men and the two women underneath.

Information obtained from Oceanside was to the effect that both Lohnes and Bohmer had been drinking at the time of the accident. They were reported to be on their way back to Los Angeles from a San Diego resort at the time.

GOVERNOR PARDONS CLIFTON R. TICKNOR

Advices from Sacramento today concerning the pardon by Gov. C. C. Young of Clifton R. Ticknor, recalled to mind of those familiar with the case that Ticknor was sentenced from superior court in Orange county on September 19, 1919, after he had entered a plea of guilty to a charge of wilfully marrying the wife of another person.

Ticknor was paroled from San Quentin on July 19, 1920, and has since made good in private life, it was revealed in the dispatch from Sacramento telling of the granting of the parole. Governor Young in issuing the pardon said that Ticknor claimed that the woman in the case had told him she was divorced and that when he pleaded guilty to the charge he was not aware that she was then married and that the marriage was of a bigamous nature.

Another paroled prisoner, Andrew J. O'Keefe, of San Francisco, was granted a pardon by the governor. O'Keefe was sentenced March 23, 1914, and released on parole September 5, 1917.

George Newdecker, of Long Beach; Mr. and Mrs. James Tetlow, of Compton; Mr. and Mrs. Everett Williams, and Clarence Bailey, of Long Beach, were among recent visitors at the Clark Lambertson home.

PRISONER HAS CELL AT NIGHT WORKS OUTSIDE

The Orange county jail has a new kind of prisoner.

He is a new type here, the result of an experiment being made by Judge James L. Allen. The new "type" merely sleeps in the jail at night. In the day time he is free to do as he pleases, so long as he pleases to work and turn the money he makes over to his family.

The prisoner is John Knight, 33, of 1110 West First street, who was arrested on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

When Knight was found guilty by the court, his wife complained that if he went to jail there would be no one to take care of her and Knight's son, so Judge Allen meted out an original dose of medicine. He sent Knight to jail after giving him a year's probation, the jail sentence being one of the conditions of probation and told him that he could leave the jail every morning to go to work but that when his work was done, he must return to his cell.

The plan is working out fine, according to Jailer George Boyd. Knight leaves the jail at 6 o'clock every morning and every evening, after work, he returns. Over the week ends, when he is not working, he is just like all the other prisoners, locked in a cell.

Knight is a laborer and his wages go each week to the county probation department, which turns the checks over to the family for their immediate needs.

This has been going on for some time. Knight was convicted on June 6.

Thomas Knight, his brother, was convicted of a similar charge at the same time, but Thomas is not married and therefore he does not get out of the jail house every day. He, too, is serving one year. The two men were arrested by Officer Perry of the Santa Ana police department when they were found with two young girls in a Santa Ana house several months ago.

An opportunity will be offered for a large chorus to work up a lovely Christmas program through the adult education department of the Santa Ana schools. It was announced today by Mrs. Golden Weston, director. All those interested were requested by her to meet with Mrs. Frances Beeson at 7 p. m. Thursday in room 231, administration building, of the high school.

"Both men and women are needed and we hope a large number will come, whether or not they have had much or any experience in choruses before. The Christmas story will be told by carols, songs and lights. Later an oratorio, such as the Messiah or the Creation may be given," said Mrs. Weston.

"The value of music in the life of a community already has been emphasized in Santa Ana and we feel that this valuable opportunity will bring music into the lives of more people."

BUSINESS MEN PREPARING FOR YULE PROGRAM

Plans for decorating the downtown business section of Santa Ana during the Christmas holidays are already under way by a special committee of the Business Men's association. It was announced by Earl R. Ruddy, secretary-manager of the organization, who added that the show this year will be on a much bigger and better scale than that attempted last year.

While Ruddy was not ready to give any definite plans, he intimated that in addition to the Yuletide trees, miles of garlands studded with multi-hued lights, and other decorative features, the committee has in mind a number of novel attractions expected will contribute in a large share to the success of the undertaking.

Ruddy explained that reason for the undertaking is not only a desire on the part of the merchants to create a festive spirit during the holiday period but also in this way show the residents their appreciation of patronage given them during the year.

October Diamond Days

October 10th to

SPECIAL DISPLAYS PREPARED BY LOCAL DEALERS SETTING FORTH LATEST GEM FASHIONS

Santa Ana jewelers today were joining with business men throughout the nation in observing national diamond week. The local places of business are featuring diamonds in their window displays and the sparkling stones may be seen tastefully arranged in a variety of ways in windows of jewelry stores here.

Diamond days are to last until October 18. The purpose of the event is to call attention to the beauty of diamonds and to demonstrate how they can be employed tastefully and artistically in various objects which lend charm to the wearer.

Santa Ana dealers are expecting an unusual amount of interest in the diamond day display inasmuch as the featuring of the stones in this way is more or less unique this year among local jewelers.

Stocks in local stores, complete at all times, are now augmented with usual special pieces that portray fashion's latest word in fine jewelry design and exemplify the latest modes in gem cutting.

The exhibits depict the fascinating aspects of the story of the diamond. They represent a notable assemblage of jewelry creations that will command admiration during the fall and winter. And diamonds retain their value unimpaired throughout the years.

Dealers of Santa Ana have expressed the wish that as many as possible view the displays prepared for Diamond days, in the belief that the public will experience the same keen pleasure in viewing them that the dealers have felt in preparing them.

MILL WORKER BENEFITED

Picked Up After Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Towanda, Pa.—"I was working in a silk mill and got so tired and run down that I weighed only 80 pounds. I was not well enough to do my work. As soon as I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I began to pick up. After being married for thirteen years, I had a baby boy and the next year I had another boy who now weighs 37 pounds and is healthy as a bear. The Vegetable Compound has helped me in a dozen ways and I hope others will try it too."

—Mrs. C. B. Johnson, Webb Street, R. D. #6, Towanda, Pennsylvania.

ANTIQUES SHOWN PLACENTIA BOARD

PLACENTIA, Oct. 14.—An exhibit of school antiques which Superintendent Glenn Riddlebarger has collected from the Yorba and Placentia schools was displayed last night to members of the school board at their regular meeting.

An old-fashioned desk, showing the marks of time, one of the kind that has a center compartment, the lid of which lifts up, "where we used to hide bats to scare the teacher" (according to one dignified member of the board), bore on its top a large bell to call the children in, and a small bell for classes. There was the first register of the Yorba school, bearing the date 1889, a school manual of 1895, and books ranging from "Child's History of Rome" printed in 1856 to a hand book of mineralogy and petrography and other high school subjects, all printed before 1890.

Members of the board voted to purchase a new automatic water heater for the nurse's room, and Mr. Riddlebarger was asked to get prices on them. An electric refrigerator for the cafeteria and prices on shelving for the La Jolla school, and for sand tables and reading tables for the Bradford avenue school is to be obtained by Riddlebarger.

son, A. N. Beal, Carl Nichols, H. T. Keele, J. O. Smith, H. W. Kimball and Miss Margaret Hill. Mrs. Jack Jentges assisted the committee in charge headed by Mrs. Charles Franks.

A group of friends gathered at the home of Miss Maud Aronhalt Friday evening, the event being her birthday anniversary. The affair was planned by Miss Mabel Head and was a complete surprise to Miss Aronhalt.

Games and music were enjoyed throughout the evening. Mrs. Horace Hemphill was awarded first prize and Mrs. Margaret Beardsley consolation in a musical game, while prizes in a guessing contest were won by Mrs. Bertha Allen, first, and Miss Maud Aronhalt, second.

Refreshments of birthday cake, wafers and cocoa were served. The pink and white color scheme was carried out in the decorations and nut cups.

The honoree was the recipient of many lovely gifts.

Those present were Mesdames Merle Walker, of Corona, Milo Allen, M. Ryan, Conrad Oertly, Soule Oertly, J. G. Allen, Ray Beardsley, G. L. Beardsley, Margaret Beardsley, Ernest Arrow-smith, E. BRUSHING UP SPORTS - - - - - BY LAUFER

Schuchardt Joins Don Gridmen

INJURIES MAY KEEP SEACORD OUT FOR YEAR

Despite the fact that he probably has lost the services for the season of Emmett Seacord, one of his best backfield men, Coach Bill Cook, genial head man of the Santa Ana junior college football team, today was consoled to some extent by the appearance in uniform of Orv Schuchardt, letterman last year who has finally decided to don mole skins again.

Seacord, flashy quarterback, was injured again in the Long Beach game and will not be able to play a great amount of football. Schuchardt's arrival thus helped things out considerably as the fleet Don is adept particularly at carrying the ball. He was handicapped last season because he broke his foot in the second game of the season but before and after the accident proved one of Cook's greatest ground-gainers.

Besides Schuchardt, the services of little "Shorty" Privett may prove valuable. Privett only lugged the ball four times in Saturday's game but averaged 81-2 yards on each try and another 26-yard jaunt was called back because a teammate was caught holding. Privett runs like a frightened rabbit and will be able to fill the shoes of Wayne Garlock when that capable gentleman is not playing at quarterback.

Harold Rose, second string fullback, was expected to report today after a two weeks' vacation on crutches. Rose, junior in the Mendocino park game, doesn't compare to big Clarence Hapes for line plunging but is a valuable understudy to the Garden Grove giant.

In contrast to this good news, however, was the fact that injuries are going to seriously hamper the efficiency of the Dons against Compton here Saturday. Two of Cook's best guards, the McCoy brothers from Orange, are ailing. Kermit sprained his foot against Long Beach Saturday and Curt is still under the weather from the Mendocino tussle. Curt plays guard or center with equal skill.

The loss of Joe Duncan, big end, also is felt although "Toby" Greenow is filling in efficiently. The big end quit the team before the Long Beach game because of scholastic difficulties. Lorry Walbridge, Bill Harkleroad and Charles Andres and contesting with Greenow for the berth, Hal Dunham having the other wing post clinched.

The game with Compton should go a long way to decide the favorite for conference champion. The Texans are boasting the strongest team in history, one that was able to tame Los Angeles Jaycees Saturday 6 to 0. The score might have been two touchdowns more because Compton fumbled once on the six-inch line and later fumbled a pass on the five-yard line.

To Scrimmage Dons
The Saints were scheduled to scrimmage Bill Cook's junior college squad either today or tomorrow, perhaps both days. Compton has a fairly heavy team this season and Oliver believes a workout with the rangier Dons will be just the thing for his followers.

Later in the week the Saint regulars will be given plenty of "wind sprints" and running exercises in order to build up their "lasting powers." Oliver will put the whole gang on the much-hated charging sled if they show any letdown in their practice.

Birdsong Ready Soon
Clyde Birdsong, the transfer from Mundy, Tex., who sprained his ankle in tackling practice several weeks ago and has been hours in combat ever since, was out in suit again yesterday. He will not be used Friday but may be available for the Pasadena conflict next week. Oliver intends to convert Birdsong into a fullback as replacement for Harold Pangle.

Allen Kidder and Max Wilson, the redheaded backs, turned up with sore ribs yesterday but their injuries are not serious. Anyway it is doubtful whether either will start at Compton. "Porky" Bell and Hideo Higashi being considered the regular halfbacks now because of their superior blocking ability.

Oliver has nothing but praise for the interference run by Bell, Higashi and Dallas Reichstein in the second half of the Wilson game. As a reward these three are, for the moment at least, rated as regulars.

LAST FIGHT "HONEST"
For some time it has been known that Carnera's battle with Maloney was to be his last before returning to Italy. It has not been fully established, however, that Carnera won his 23 previous fights honestly.

A few days before the Carnera-Maloney bout, See took his mammoth heavyweight to a Boston press dinner. Both manager and boxer spoke, and although See was greeted with a chorus of Bronx cheers, he told his listeners that his meat ticket would win fairly or not at all. He did not win from the Boston strong boy, now classed among the second and third-rate heavyweights, and more than ever his recent string of push-overs look like push-overs.

Carnera is supposed to return to Italy to serve three years in Benito (What a Man) Mussolini's army. Neither he nor his handlers seem much perturbed about that. They have accepted terms for several bouts on their return to this country.

Helen Moody Accepts Bid To Argentine

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 14.—Mrs. Helen Willis Moody, former United States tennis champion, has accepted an invitation to play matches here, the Argentine Lawn Tennis association announced today.

Mrs. Moody will leave New York October 17.

She will be accompanied by her husband, Frederick Moody, and Berkeley Bell of Austin, Texas.

SANTA ANA IN U. S. WOMEN'S GOLF TOURNEY

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 14.—Playing brilliant golf, Mrs. Gregg Lifer today eliminated Miss Mary Salsberry, Santa Ana, Calif., in the first round of the National Women's golf tournament. Mrs. Lifer won, 7 and 6.

Santa Ana women athletes are not what can be called lucky.

The first year Josephine Cruikshank qualified for the National Women's tennis tournament she was paired in the first round with Helen Willis, the champion, and the next year she went to the tourney she was pitted against Mrs. Watson, England's premier player.

Yesterday, Mary Salsberry, Santa Ana's first player to enter the National Women's championship in golf, qualified handsomely with a 42-48-90 over the difficult Los Angeles Country club course.

Then she drew as a first round opponent none other than Mrs. Gregg Lifer, one of the outstanding players in the whole tournament.

On top of that, Mrs. Lifer was at the very top of her game when she and Santa Ana's Miss Salsberry began stroking the links today. Mrs. Lifer covered the first nine in 38 strokes, negotiating pars and birdies consistently. She was six up on Miss Salsberry at the turn.

This is the first time that Santa Ana has had a player skilled enough to qualify for the National tournament. Miss Salsberry holds the course record for women at the Santa Ana Country club. Her mark is 83.

FIFTY DOLLARS AN HOUR
Walter Hagen and Horton Smith, golf's all-star professional team, have been getting $50 an hour for teaching Tom Thumb golf fans in New York how to putt the pill. Whiffy Cox also is reaping handsome rewards from instructions in the midwest game.

WHEN IN ROME
In speaking the other day of Boston's challenge to New York's supremacy in the fight game, I forgot to mention that Beantown promoters also are going in for the things that made Peter T. Barnum famous. Such things as the Jose Santa-Ricardo Bertazzolo and the Primo Carnera-Jimmy Maloney bouts, staged within a five-day period, would indicate that cultured old Boston likes its sideshows.

For our Latin lesson today Carnera and Santa make a fitting assignment. Let us leave Caesar to his Brutus; Cleopatra can have Mister Antony. On this day in 1930 we have two of the biggest Romans of all time.

With the bursting of the Carnera bubble, another may swell in its place. Engineers of Santa, the 6-foot 9-inch son of a Portuguese fisherman, are sure to grasp the opportunity of parading their big fellow in Primo's wake.

LAST FIGHT "HONEST"
For some time it has been known that Carnera's battle with Maloney was to be his last before returning to Italy. It has not been fully established, however, that Carnera won his 23 previous fights honestly.

A few days before the Carnera-Maloney bout, See took his mammoth heavyweight to a Boston press dinner. Both manager and boxer spoke, and although See was greeted with a chorus of Bronx cheers, he told his listeners that his meat ticket would win fairly or not at all. He did not win from the Boston strong boy, now classed among the second and third-rate heavyweights, and more than ever his recent string of push-overs look like push-overs.

Carnera is supposed to return to Italy to serve three years in Benito (What a Man) Mussolini's army. Neither he nor his handlers seem much perturbed about that. They have accepted terms for several bouts on their return to this country.

GELBERT MAKES ANOTHER HIT

Here is Charley Gelbert, youthful infield star of the St. Louis Cardinals, with his most ardent fan. The shortstop of the National league champions and his bride-to-be, Miss Mabel Hafey, are pictured below at his home in Ambler, Pa. They are to be married soon. She is a teacher in the Chambersburg, Pa., schools.

'WILD MAN' MACIAS IN LINE FOR DIVODI BOUT; DECOURSEY SCRAP MAY BE HIS LAST HERE

"Wild Man" Macias' match with Johnny DeCoursey at the Orange County Athletic club Thursday night may be the bulky Mexican's last main event here. Immediately after the DeCoursey quarrel, Billy Darnley, Macias' manager, will leave for San Francisco ostensibly to second another of his charges, Joe Reese, at Dreamland but actually to discuss a contract for Macias to meet Andy Divodi, one of the country's ranking welterweights and a fighter who recently gave Young Corbett a peck of trouble in a Frisco ring.

Darnley thinks chances for the bout to materialize are good. He has been in conference with bay city matchmakers informally but will talk turkey as soon as he arrives in the north. Reese, another local boxer, goes against Louis O'Neill, San Francisco's best and most popular welter. If "Fighting Joe" get past O'Neill nothing can stop him from big shots either.

Owes Wilmington Bout
Darnley says Macias has a moral obligation to fill at Wilmington before agreeing to box elsewhere. The "Wild Man" was to have boxed Joe Cordova there two weeks ago but cancelled the match at the last minute because of an injured hand. Macias and Cordova probably will go postward at the harbor arena next week.

If the Divodi bout falls through, Darnley plans to start his prize package either at Hollywood or the Olympic. Macias is the most sought Mexican fighter in Southern California right now, both Tom Gallery of Hollywood and Jack Doyle, who personally is making matches for his Olympic now, being after the colorful Macias.

Since Bert Colima fouled his way out of consideration there has been no outstanding Mexican pugilist in Southern California but Gallery and Doyle both believe they can "build up" Macias to Colima's old standing. Doyle probably will get the Darnley fighter if Divodi doesn't want any of him.

DeCoursey Dangerous
Meanwhile the phlegmatic homomere is winding up his training for the DeCoursey battle, fully aware of the danger he is encountering right here at home. DeCoursey knocked out Milford Berglund the last time he showed here. Last Friday at Hollywood, working in the special event, DeCoursey dusted off Johnny Tremaine in two heats. DeCoursey is now managed by Jim Jeffries who will be in Johnny's corner Thursday. Al Morro, Jeff's sensational young heavyweight, also will be here to coach his stablemate.

The Orange County Athletic club show, sponsored by the county vulture of the 40 at 8 society of the American Legion, will have strong support in the preliminaries. Johnny Previs and Joe Badillo mix in the semi. "Dutch" Easter and Al Cadena also are listed for six rounds. Other bouts are Harry O'Hannigan vs. Tony Cadena and Jackie Rutherford vs. Anero Placios.

FOOTBALL BRIEFS

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 14.—Home from the rather disappointing trip to Pullman, Wash., the University of Southern California Trojans went into secret practice today for the Utah Aggies game here Saturday. Head Coach Howard Jones moved Orv Mohler into the varsity as quarterback and Gaius Shaver was made fullback to replace Musick. Shaw was supplanted at guard by Black and Hall gave his tackle berth to Al Plachin—all changes brought about by the 7-6 defeat at the hands of the Cougars last Saturday.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 14.—The U. C. L. A. Bruins were put through intensive scrimmages today to improve their offense for the strong St. Mary's team at the Coliseum Friday night. Bob Decker and Lenny Bergdahl, two sophomore ball runners, played on the first string with Howie Roberts at half and Norman Duncan at full.

PALO ALTO, Oct. 14.—Returning from Minneapolis with nothing to show from their game last week with Minnesota, the Stanford eleven started preparations today for Saturday's battle with Oregon State here. The Cardinals don't look as strong as they are supposed to be.

HARVARD-ARMY CONTEST ALSO OF IMPORTANCE

BY HENRY McLEMORE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—Saturday's national football program is generously sprinkled with big games involving big names, but it should not take little Johnny way back on the last row more than a second to make the Notre Dame-Carnegie Tech rumpus at South Bend as the week's best.

Granting that Army and Harvard, Alabama and Tennessee, Dartmouth and Columbia, and Wisconsin and Pennsylvania to mention a few, will create plenty of excitement, Notre Dame and Carnegie should surpass them all in thrills.

A national championship may ride on that game Saturday and nobody knows it better than Knute Rockne and Judge Steffen, the rival coaches.

ing to the Irish, defeated Georgia Tech last week, 31 to 0. The Georgia Tech the Plaid whipped was not the Georgia Tech of several seasons back, but a pretty fair team, nevertheless.

Tennessee and Alabama should provide a most lively afternoon's entertainment down in Tuscaloosa. Tennessee, unbeaten in three years, must be licked sooner or later and Alabama, playing in its own backyard, looks like the team to do it. Tennessee is badly crippled while Alabama is in the best of shape.

The affair at Cambridge will bring together two untried eleven. Army looked good against Furman and Swarthmore, but that means nothing; Harvard seemed strong against the Coast Guard and Springfield, and that means less. Saturday will mark the first time either eleven has met real opposition and the outcome is a tossup. Pennsylvania, boasting a 40 to 0 victory over Virginia, travels to Madison to meet a Wisconsin eleven that holds a 34-0 decision over Chicago.

FOUR HELD IN FATAL LA SALLE GIN PARTY

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 14.—(UP)—Four men were held today pending an autopsy on the body of Hazel Cole, 20-year-old art student who was found dead in a Culver City apartment after a party given by Bobby LaSalle, welterweight boxer.

The girl died from poisonous alcohol, police believe, and the four men will be charged with manslaughter if a chemical analysis bears out the theory. Medicine which the girl had been taking, combined with the liquor, was considered a probable cause.

Dan Hatt, 51, allegedly identified by La Salle as the man who sold him gin for the party; Sam S. Stutzel, proprietor of a home brew supply establishment; Joe Vara, alleged operator of the still that produced the gin, and Joe Canfield, held as the go-between in purveying the liquor, were the men in jail.

WEST WINDS

Here and There in Local Sport
By EDDIE WEST

Like a poor little step-sister who suddenly marries a man with a million or writes a successful novel, the long ignored junior college is about ready to draw up a chair at the head of the sports table. Inch by reluctant inch, almost as a door grudgingly opened to an unwelcome guest, prejudice against jaycee football is giving way before its proven ability. The Jaycees are escaping at last from the tomb of the living dead.

The destiny of the Dons changed last Thanksgiving day. That ever will be a red letter afternoon in Santa Ana junior college annals, and well it might.

It was that day—always a good football day—that hundreds, verily thousands of Orange county persons, with nothing else in the world to do, came to Santa Ana to determine for themselves about this junior college football getting so much space in the newspapers.

If you were one of those who you will know it was last year the Dons began winning football games in a nice, fine manner and forgot to stop winning until they had won all there was to be won.

Those who came stopped, looked and listened. They saw one of the greatest games of football ever played in this or any other county.

And jaycee football has prospered since. Last Saturday it drew a capacity house to Poly field to see a comparatively unimportant conference contest.

Gone are the tincup days of junior college football. From now on the Dons will stand on their own two feet and share with the high school the public's attention.

WELL, THEY'RE CHAMPIONS
How certain the mein of a loser, suddenly turned winner, changes, however.

When they were begging for publicity, the junior colleges pulled out their passes by the pocketful and simply said: "How many?"

Now they send a curtailed few and tell the press to take 'em or leave 'em.

Wonder what the schools would do if the press suddenly got tough, too, and restricted the school to say a stick of type a week?

SOCIAL ERROR
In "Piping 'Em Off" after the Santa Ana-Woodrow Wilson game, a paragraph said that Al Rebohn, Santa Ana's brilliant captain and quarterback, gained a total of 140 yards from the line of scrimmage.

The 1 should have been a 2.

SCRIMMAGE ON SCHEDULE FOR SAINT ELEVEN

Work, work and then more work is on the practice schedule for the Santa Ana high school football squad this week.

Obviously dissatisfied with the blocking of his regulars against Woodrow Wilson, Coach "Tex" Oliver today proceeded to concentrate on that important phase of the game.

Plenty of scrimmage will be ordered between now and Friday when the Saints play their second Coast Preparatory league game at Compton, Oliver believing that players can learn blocking faster in actual competition.

To Scrimmage Dons
The Saints were scheduled to scrimmage Bill Cook's junior college squad either today or tomorrow, perhaps both days. Compton has a fairly heavy team this season and Oliver believes a workout with the rangier Dons will be just the thing for his followers.

Later in the week the Saint regulars will be given plenty of "wind sprints" and running exercises in order to build up their "lasting powers." Oliver will put the whole gang on the much-hated charging sled if they show any letdown in their practice.

Birdsong Ready Soon
Clyde Birdsong, the transfer from Mundy, Tex., who sprained his ankle in tackling practice several weeks ago and has been hours in combat ever since, was out in suit again yesterday. He will not be used Friday but may be available for the Pasadena conflict next week. Oliver intends to convert Birdsong into a fullback as replacement for Harold Pangle.

Allen Kidder and Max Wilson, the redheaded backs, turned up with sore ribs yesterday but their injuries are not serious. Anyway it is doubtful whether either will start at Compton. "Porky" Bell and Hideo Higashi being considered the regular halfbacks now because of their superior blocking ability.

Oliver has nothing but praise for the interference run by Bell, Higashi and Dallas Reichstein in the second half of the Wilson game. As a reward these three are, for the moment at least, rated as regulars.

For some time it has been known that Carnera's battle with Maloney was to be his last before returning to Italy. It has not been fully established, however, that Carnera won his 23 previous fights honestly.

Late News From Orange And Nearby Towns

54 SIGNED IN ORANGE CHURCH SCHOOL MONDAY

ORANGE, Oct. 14.—The third Leadership Training school under the auspices of the Orange Community Council of Christian Education opened last night with a banquet in the Methodist church at 6 o'clock.

The Rev. O. Scott McFarland, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, Santa Ana, gave the address of the evening. R. C. Patton, dean and president, introduced the faculty for the four courses. The instructor for the New Testament course is the Rev. Franklin H. Minck, but not being able to be present, he appointed the Rev. Robert McAulay, of the First Presbyterian church of Orange. Story telling in Christian education is to be taught by Mrs. A. C. Bray, superintendent of beginners' department in the Fullerton Methodist church. Junior department administration will be taught by Miss Minnie Morse, director of religious education in the Fullerton Presbyterian church. Miss Esther Terry, director of religious education in the Orange Methodist church, will teach the young people and senior department.

The enrollment was 54 with five coming from churches outside of Orange, the United Presbyterian church, Santa Ana; First Christian church, Santa Ana; First Baptist church, Concord, N. H.; the Methodist church, Newport Beach. The enrollment from the Methodist church is 20, Presbyterian church, 8; Friends church, El Modena, 2; Baptist church, 2; Christian church, 13.

Songs were led by Carl Stuckey, with Mrs. J. E. Coe at the piano. "Choose This Day" by Knuth was sung by Percy Green with an encore. "Father of Flyn" by Raymond McCall gave a violin solo, accompanied by Virginia Harper with "Home Sweet Home" as an encore.

The Rev. Mr. McFarland in his address said in part: "The greatest business before the world today is in the training of the youth of the land. The public school education is largely by secular forces with the religious motif left out. The religious education in the church school needs the kind of machinery that will bring God to the pupil. Religion is not God, religion is experience. We should build our program around the little one around us. It pays to give the best we have under the infinite power of God and reach and touch other lives for Him."

MEMBER GAIN RECORDED FOR CHURCH CHOIR

ORANGE, Oct. 14.—The Young People's choir of the First Methodist church is rapidly increasing in membership since the first meetings of the group this fall. The choir now numbers 67 attending regular evening services and the membership in the organization bids fair to exceed that of last year which was over 80. This is considered the largest young people's choir singing regularly in any church in Southern California, according to church authorities here.

At the present time quartets are being formed, both young men's and young women's and mixed quartets. These groups of singers are receiving special training by the choir director, Mrs. George Harper.

SOUL WITHOUT FAITH BANKRUPT SAYS MINISTER

ORANGE, Oct. 14.—"If any man thirst let him come unto me," was the text of the sermon delivered by the Rev. C. L. Green, of Pomona, at the Sunday morning service at the Christian church. The pastor of the church, the Rev. Franklin H. Minck, is in attendance at the world convention of Christian churches at Washington, D. C.

The anthem by the choir was "Stand Up for Jesus," by Marie M. Hine. Mrs. Leon Des Larzes sang "He Shall Feed His Flock Like a Shepherd" and Mrs. Walter Koeler sang "Come Unto Him."

The Rev. Mr. Green said in part: "In this world of today, torn with strife, comes this message, 'If any man thirst, let him come unto me.' The world is striving to forget but is not satisfied, for the soul is not satisfied without faith. The soul without faith is in a bankrupt condition. Happiness comes from within a contented spirit, not found in material things but in things eternal, the robes of the grace of God. The adoption into the heavenly family brings the reality of things eternal. We need this sense of eternity to give us victory over fear, doubt, worry and disappointment. We are then children of the living God with salvation, victory over death, and the fullness of the Spirit of the living God. We find all our needs in Jesus, when we surrendered ourselves to Him with faith. Unbelief and intolerance have no abiding place in a soul surrendered to Him."

In keeping with the season masquerade costumes are displayed for sale this week and several pieces of furniture, including a large dining room table recently have been presented to the store. Women in charge of the enterprise are planning a social meeting and dinner for early in the week.

At the present time a radio is wanted at the store and Mrs. Lillian Waldmann, who is in charge of welfare bureau and the employment bureau, believes that several battery sets could be disposed of, as a battery set given the store remained in stock but two days before it was sold.

The American Legion auxiliary met in the American Legion hall yesterday at 2 o'clock with Mrs. Charlotte Adams in the chair. Mrs. Mary Peterkin was reported ill. Mrs. Anna Parker was reported improving.

Charles Robinson will be in charge of the meeting.

The Wesleyan service guild will also meet this evening in the home of Miss Esther Ratliff, 273 North Lemon street. The meetings of this group are usually held on Monday night but during the sessions of the Community training school for Christian leadership which are held on Monday nights, the Wesleyan guild meetings have been advanced to Tuesday nights.

On Thursday an all day meeting of the Benedictine class will be held in the home of Mrs. Carl Stuckey, 374 South Shaffer street, and the R.P.C. class will meet in the home of Mrs. Ed Stanley. A covered dish luncheon will be served at both events.

LEADERS TELL REACTIONS TO WORK PROBLEM

The question of whether or not Orange county or the city of Santa Ana should establish a farm or wood yard or other means of giving employment to persons in need and out of work, which was recently suggested in a letter to the Register from J. H. Hasenlager, has created considerable discussion, especially on the part of persons who are professionally in touch with the unemployed and persons in need of aid.

Several workers in local welfare and relief agencies have been interviewed by the Register relative to their ideas on the proposal and the work that is now being accomplished in meeting the needs for assistance in the community. The reports, which are presented herewith, are quite interesting, showing a remarkably efficient handling of relief work in Orange county and revealing many facts concerning the kind of work accomplished and results attained that is not generally understood.

"Employment is the great need at present," said J. Winterburne, manager of the Good Will Industries, located on West Fourth street: "Whether the county or the city could operate some project that would give employment is a question, as it involves so many angles and points of difficulty. In our Good Will store, we are carrying on a free employment bureau, through which we place a good many men and women in work, usually of a temporary sort. We could do very much more if there were more jobs to be had. We also employ just as many people in our workrooms as we can possibly use. From 14 to 20 people are regularly on our payroll, doing such work as they are able to do. We collect our stock in trade from friends who are willing to give us what they no longer need, clothing, shoes, furniture and all such articles, including waste paper. We bring this material into our store, and clean, sort, repair and generally recondition it so as to make it usable. It is then sold in the store at prices which represent the actual cost of reconditioning and handling.

"We are able to give employment to a number of people, both men and women, in cleaning, sorting, repairing, repainting and otherwise working over this material. Right now there are more than a dozen families which depend on the Goodwill for work that helps them to keep going. We co-operate with the county and with other agencies in trying to meet the needs. Ours is a non-profit, self-sustaining enterprise, operated on the basis of Christian service.

"Our woodyard is a case exactly in line with the suggestion from Mr. Hasenlager. In this project we gave employment last year to 350 different men, who worked from one day to one week on the wood. This business would pay out, and could be greatly enlarged if we had a better sale for the wood, but we have had difficulty in finding buyers, and so have been obliged to curtail this work, as we have not capital to permit us to carry a large stock on hand.

"We have a dormitory, where 12 clean, comfortable beds are available for lodgings for men. The charge is 25 cents a night, including a hot bath and a towel. If the applicant does not have the money, he is given a chance to work for his lodging.

"Except for the dormitory, where transients are cared for, we concentrate on service to local residents. There are many handicapped, physically unfit persons who can do only light work, or work of certain kinds. For these we try to furnish work suited to their ability. Our experience in the line of providing work for the needy might be helpful to the county or the city if they decide to undertake something of the sort. I believe, however, that the needs can be met this winter by a general co-operation on the part of the public with the present established agencies, which are working together in splendid fashion, and are doing effective and extensive work."

Ensign C. O. Edwards, of the Salvation Army, revealed interesting facts about the work being carried on at his headquarters on North Sycamore street. He is entirely in agreement with other workers as to the need of permanent employment for men and women who are willing and able to work, but in the absence of such employment he is carrying on as effectively as possible in the line of emergency relief.

The local plan of co-operation provides that the Salvation Army cares for emergency cases, particularly the transients who cannot be handled by the county welfare department on account of being non-residents.

"We are having little trouble with the so-called 'bums' and 'tramps' as most of the men who call on us for help are looking for work," says Edwards. "One of the saddest parts of the work is the large number of old men who come to us. More than one-third of our applicants are over 50 years of age. Last month we had 19 men over 60. The oldest was 75 years old."

"To meet immediate needs, we are trying to feed such men as are down and out for the time. The last week in September we gave 72 meals, and the first week in October, 94. The meals are very inexpensive, but serve to keep a man from going hungry. Several local merchants are co-operating in this work by giving us left-over food material which is still usable, though hardly salable. Fruit, vegetables, stale bread, and similar materials are being used to good advantage. I could use more if it were available. Grocers, bakers, vegetable markets and meat markets can find with us a good place to dispose of their unsalable goods, and as the need increases, we shall be compelled to have more supplies.

"When men are hungry, they will steal. If we can feed them and encourage them so as to keep them from crime, it seems to me a cheap form of insurance. As we are handling things at present, no person needs to go hungry, and no business man or householder needs to give money or food to people who ask. We are prepared to handle the situation, and would like to have cases sent to us. We wish to co-operate with all who are interested in feeding the hungry."

"The plan suggested," said W. S. Gregg, director of the Orange county department of social welfare, "is made impossible by reason of cost and results. Assuming that it would use the unemployed, the fact is that most of the white people who come to this office are not capable of raising truck, and those who could do so would stay no longer than it would take them to get other work, thus necessitating a continuous turnover of the workers, and hindering any production of vegetables. Garden stuff raised in competition with the regular gardeners would be of prohibitive cost. The expense of operating a county farm as suggested would be out of proportion to the benefits, in my judgment.

"However, our citizens can do a great deal to help us in the welfare work if they will let us know of work of any kind, odd jobs, garden or yard work, either for men or women. In our office we appreciate what amounts to a free employment agency, through which we place a large number of people, and we could place many more if we had the openings for them. Our office co-operates with the Salvation Army, the Good Will store, the Veterans' Welfare and other agencies, in providing relief and in securing employment.

"It must be borne in mind that a great proportion of those applying for relief are not physically able to do full work, and must be given aid. Those applying for work are able and willing to support themselves if work can be provided, but work which will enable themselves to support their families must be more than the temporary employment that can be given in a wood yard or a truck farm."

"I doubt the possibility of managing a public work enterprise so as to make it serve the purpose. It would be better, and far cheaper, if the citizens who have work to be done, and who can afford to pay a reasonable wage, would let us send them workers."

The welfare worker for the Disabled Veterans, Harry D. Edwards, found food for thought in the suggested public work plan. "It might be a good idea," he said. "We certainly need work for our people. But I believe I can give a better suggestion than the one under discussion. If our employers of labor would adopt the policy of giving the preference to American citizens, local residents, and would quit importing so much labor from outside, it would go a long way toward solving our problem. There is a lot of work being done in Orange county. If it could be done so far as possible by Orange county people, and if we could eliminate the transients and the cheap foreign labor, I think it would be a great help. My work is altogether with the ex-service men, and there is plenty of tragedy and pathos in it. Society owes a great debt to these men, and we ought to do for them whatever they need, even if it is expensive. They did not hold out on us when we needed their services."

ARTICLE SAYS CATHOLICS ARE FOES OF LIQUOR

Patrick H. Callahan, well known Catholic layman and manufacturer, writes on "The Roman Catholic Church and Prohibition" in this week's issue of the Christian Herald. Himself a Catholic, Colonel Callahan sees no reason why his church should not favor prohibition and a number of reasons why it should.

"More and better Catholic schools and churches," he says, "have been built since the advent of prohibition than ever before in the same length of time. Catholics are rubbing elbows with prohibitions from the time they are born."

It is a part of the wet propaganda, in Colonel Callahan's opinion, that Catholics generally have been made to believe that their church does not favor prohibition. The church has never made any such statement. On the contrary, many statements, before and after prohibition, have been made, concerning the sale and drinking of alcoholic beverages. Back in 1884 the Third Plenary Council meeting at Baltimore insisted that those Catholics engaged in the sale of liquors choose a more honorable way of making a living. Catholic chief justices have upheld the validity of the Volstead law. The law has been endorsed and worked for by prominent men of the Catholic clergy and laymen, both here and abroad. Long before prohibition, every Catholic society of prominence, with one exception, barred from membership any person engaged in the liquor trade. The 18th amendment is practically a reprint of the laws governing the Knights of Columbus on the liquor question.

"The use of intoxicating liquors," the colonel declares, "was born in the long ago, and it is only natural that the battle for the elimination should be a hard one. But the sun will never again set on a sodden America, reeling under the influence of alcohol. The United States has conquered its enemies from without; it will not surrender to its enemies from within."

600 Boy Scouts To Attend Court Of Honor Oct. 24

What promises to be the big outstanding event in Orange Boy Scout activities for the year is the Eagle Scout Court of Honor of the county October 24, for which program arrangements are now in preparation, according to George G. Walker, Orange county Scout executive.

More than 600 Scouts, drawn from troops from all parts of the county, are expected to attend the affair, it was added. Following a picnic dinner, to be served by the Tribe of Gorgon, composed of boys who have attained high ratings, there will be various games as well as a select program of entertainment.

The main feature of the outing will be the court of honor to be presided over by H. G. Nelson, principal of the Julia C. Lathrop junior high school, Scout commissioner of Orange county, at which eagle Scout and other badges will be presented to about 60 scouts in the county.

Architect Draws Plans for $80,000 Ensenada Hostelry

Plans and specifications for the construction of a new $80,000 hotel in Ensenada, to be privately financed by a syndicate of Los Angeles business men, are being drawn by W. L. Faulkner, well known Santa Ana architect, having offices in the Builders' Exchange building.

The new hotel, Faulkner said, will be of Spanish design, and when completed, contain 40 rooms with bath, 2 suites, and 2 apartments, dining room, coffee shop, and all other modern facilities. It will be located on the beach opposite the old Ensenada hotel. Building material for the structure will be shipped down on barges, Faulkner added.

Chinese Herbs

Every intelligent American knows that the older races cured their ailments with herbs. Owing to the mixed foods and rapid mastication of the individual of today, they are more susceptible to liver, stomach and kidney trouble, which eventually upsets the system and causes a general rundown condition, where often a malignant disease occurs, resulting in an operation as the only relief.

Why not avoid this by keeping your body and blood built up? If you are suffering and have found no relief, why not try our Herbs before your case is too far gone? I have been helping the sick, my Herbs have done wonders for many people in Los Angeles and Long Beach for the past twenty-eight years. Why not convince yourself?

College Y. M. C. A. Launches Membership Campaign

DRIVE PLANNED AT DINNER AND BUSINESS MEET

An official membership drive for the junior college Y. M. C. A. was started last night with a dinner and business meeting held at the city "Y" building. Bob Williams, president of the organization, assisted by members and officers, prepared a conference of special interest to those men, who were their guests at the gathering.

Dr. G. A. Warner, pastor of the first Methodist church was the speaker of the evening and pointed out a number of ideas of special interest to college men. "Religion is the purpose for which we are living," stated Dr. Warner, "and science is the method by which these religious ideals are carried out. Make for yourself a philosophy of life and shape yourself along those lines. No man can succeed without a direct object in life. Find it before you go farther."

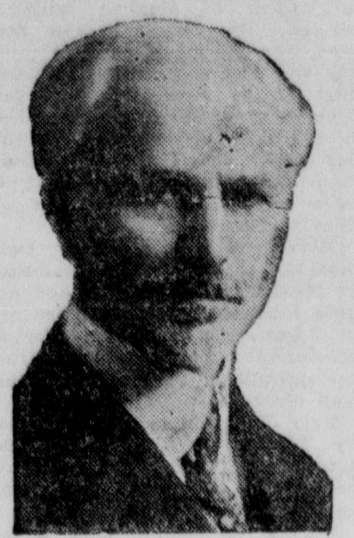

Foremost among the activities of the college Y. M. C. A. this semester will be the extensive deputation work in various churches of Santa Ana and surrounding communities. Tom Clark, "Y" deputation commissioner, and Mitchell Hookins, newly appointed chairman of the deputation committee, have organized plans for members of the club to speak before young people's societies in the city churches throughout the coming year.

Three members of the group will speak next Sunday evening at an Epworth league meeting to be held at the First Methodist church, South. Bob Williams will talk on the subject "Can a college man be a Christian?" Mitchell Hookins will speak on "Friendship," and Robert DePree has chosen for his subject "Self Realization." Marion Nau, junior college violinist, will contribute several musical numbers to the program.

Frank Mansur and Mitchell Hookins started the ball rolling last Sunday evening at the Tustin Methodist church with short talks of current interest to young people. Engagements have been booked for Sunday evening programs in Santa Ana and outlying communities. Last year the club's work was extended as far as Pasadena, and members of the deputation committee traveled on several occasions to speak before churches in that district.

Y. M. C. A. officers active in club affairs are: Bob Williams, President; Jac. Crawford, vice President; Cardie Oglesby, secretary; Eldon Braag, treasurer; Cal Stillwell, religious education; F. Mansur, membership; Tom Clark, deputation commissioner; and Phil Madin, field secretary.

EVANGELIST WILL GIVE TALKS HERE

Evangelist A. E. Stuenkel, internationally known Bible expositor, author and singer is expected to arrive in the city today to deliver a series of Bible lectures at the Christian Alliance church here, beginning tomorrow night. "Religion is the purpose for which we are living," stated Dr. Warner, "and science is the method by which these religious ideals are carried out. Make for yourself a philosophy of life and shape yourself along those lines. No man can succeed without a direct object in life. Find it before you go farther."

MODERN ROOMS FOR PHYSICIANS READY DEC. 15

One of the most modern physician's offices in the city is being planned by Drs. Zoe N. and J. M. Bulpitt, well known Santa Ana doctors, who will occupy part of the new building to be erected at Eighth and Main streets.

The doctors' offices will occupy 1700 square feet of floor space and will be equipped with a new $3000 X-ray machine and a complete colon irrigation room, it was reported. The rooms will make up a complete clinic. There will be an alcove, a reception room, two consulting rooms with an examining room between, electrical treatment room, an X-ray and dark room, an operation room, laboratory and dressing rooms.

The new building will be completed in time for occupancy about December 15. It was announced. The physicians have arranged for ample parking places around the building.

Modernistic color and finishing will be used, each room having its own individual style. Several of the rooms will have tile flooring.

ACTIVITIES RECORD AT HIGH SCHOOL FOUND IN OLD FILES

The students of Santa Ana Polytechnic High school have a complete record of all their school papers since the very first. The first issue, which is in one of the 16 bound volumes of the Generator, is dated March 5, 1913. This was announced today by Miss Lillian Dickson, librarian of the high school and the junior college.

By looking over the past issues the students are able to compare the old time Generators with the present ones and to study the differences in style as well as the material which constituted news then and now.

A small sheet when it started, the Generator has grown remarkably. Its first expansion was in 1914 and then in 1919 it was enlarged to its present proportions.

The library also has copies of the yearbook, the Ariel, dating back to 1904.

FORMER JUDGE TALKS IN S. A. TWO EVENINGS

Opportunity to hear a speaker of unusual ability with an especially interesting story is given the people of Santa Ana and vicinity by the First United Brethren church, which is presented Dr. A. U. Michelson, a former judge and criminal lawyer of Germany, on Thursday and Friday evenings at the church auditorium, 1101 West Third street, at 7:30 p. m. each day. Dr. Michelson, it is reported, is widely known throughout Germany as a great criminal and international lawyer.

Dr. Michelson is the son of an orthodox Jew and was brought up in the home of a Jewish rabbi. He studied in the University of Berlin and other European universities and graduated with highest honors. In addition to his law studies he did considerable work in the subjects of medicine, languages, history, philosophy and theology. After completing his work in the universities he took the highest examination before the secretaries of state in Berlin, judges of the supreme court and professors of the various universities. He was then decorated with the robe and cap and imperial insignia and served as a judge in the court of Germany. Later he retired from the bench and practiced as a criminal lawyer.

The Rev. R. W. Harlow, pastor of the United Brethren church, which is bringing the celebrated jurist to Santa Ana, made the following statement in connection with Dr. Michelson: "He has a most interesting story to tell and wherever he has spoken large crowds have gathered. NEW CLUBS FOR BOYS PLANNED AT POLY HIGH Arrangements for five new boys' clubs were made at a meeting of the student council of the local high school, which was held yesterday afternoon. Coach "Tex" Oliver, Ray Adkinson and Lynn Crawford are to be the advisors of the new organizations, it was learned.

These proposed clubs will be organized along the lines of the high school engineering club and service clubs, it was decided, but the members will choose the names. The purpose of the clubs is to promote social life among the boys of the high school and they also will further inter-club sports. After school sports between the members of the different organizations are to be started, it was learned.

The members of council include George Munro, Al Reboin, Bill Kistinger, Floyd Blower, Bill Gibbs, Fred Eley and Bill Friend. This council is the head of all the boys' clubs in the school.

ligion, Judaism included. He was convinced that philosophy was the greatest thing in the world. But when God got hold of his heart he saw the folly of his former thinking and reasoning, gave up his theism and has become a most devoted follower of Jesus Christ. It is an exceptional opportunity for the citizens of Orange county to hear his story."

TAXPAYERS OF COUNTY FACING NEW PROBLEM

Taxpayers of the Santa Ana and Fullerton junior college districts face the prospect of being called on to assume the major portion of the upkeep of the junior colleges in their districts unless a bill is adopted in the next session of the state legislature providing for different methods of financing these educational institutions and guaranteeing $100 per pupil from the state for this purpose, it became known today.

Fund Lowered

The present plan of financing junior colleges calls for an appropriation of $100 per pupil from the state junior college fund, but this fund was only of sufficient size last year to permit the payment of $30 per pupil, while this year the fund has been further lowered so that even this amount of money will not be available.

Efforts of all junior colleges in the state thus face the necessity of being curtailed unless the 1931 legislature takes steps to provide immediate financial assistance for present and future needs of the system. If the legislature refuses such aid, property owners in the districts must be prepared to bear a heavier share of the cost.

A statement from Walter E. Morgan, head of the division of research and statistics in the state department of education, brought this picture of the state of affairs, as a result of preliminary work he has done preparatory to placing the whole situation before the legislature.

"At present the state has a junior college fund which is supposed to supply $100 per pupil a year," Morgan explained.

$30 Per Pupil

"Actually the fund was able to give but $30 a pupil last year, and this year it will be even less. It is derived from the state's share of oil bonuses, royalties and leases, as returned by the federal government. Conservation policies recently inaugurated have cut down this money, until it is no longer adequate."

"We will ask the legislature to pass a law, guaranteeing that junior colleges get $100 per pupil, even though it becomes necessary to draw the money from the general funds of the state."

"Falling this, the state department of education is admittedly at a loss as to the future of junior colleges."

There are now 16,918 pupils enrolled in 16 junior college districts, Morgan said, with more than 2,000 additional to be added when the new Los Angeles college qualifies for state funds in 1932.

"Total expenses, excluding capital outlay, for junior colleges during the past fiscal year totaled $2,250,000," Morgan said.

"The state paid $753,000 of this amount. Expenses will grow steadily however, and state funds for this purpose will decrease unless action is taken by the legislature."

"Property owners are now so heavily burdened that they cannot

LOCAL ARMORY PROVIDED IN STATE BUDGET

Prospects for the erection of a state armory for the use of the National Guard companies in Santa Ana were brighter when it became known today that this project was contained in the 1931-32 budget which is being prepared by Lyman M. King, director of finance, for submission to the next session of the state legislature.

The budget is being prepared in accordance with the long term planning for California institutions which was inaugurated by Governor Young, and which it is anticipated will be adopted by his successor. The total budget under the 10 year plan of laying out the building program amounted to $31,140,455.42. Of this amount expenditures of $6,941,595.42 were called for in 1929-30 period, and $5,832,150 for the 1931-32 period which is being worked out in detail now and in which is included a tentative appropriation of $25,000 for the Santa Ana armory.

Other state institutions which are included in the program are California state fair, Preston school of industry, Whittier state school, Agnew state hospital, Mendocino state hospital, Napa state hospital, Sonoma state home, Pacific colony, industrial home for adult blind, a proposed new state hospital for the insane, National Guard, Veterans home of California, San Quentin state prison, Folsom state prison and state teachers colleges.

be asked to assume the costs of the junior college system, and it is apparent that unless the state finds a way to finance them, junior colleges must curtail their efforts, with new colleges out of the question."

TRIAL OF ACOSTA UNDER WAY TODAY

The trial of Jose Acosta, charged with operating an automobile while intoxicated, got under way today before a jury in the court of Judge James L. Allen.

Members of the jury considering the evidence that is being introduced are Mrs. Cecil Bonebrake, Mrs. Helen Gardner, B. M. Huff, Austin Cody, Mrs. Alice Stephens, Sarah Tabor, Mrs. Rose A. Everett, H. T. Groves, Mrs. M. Estelle Carter, Elizabeth Warren, Frank McLaughlin and H. G. Moberly.

Sid Smithwick, chief of detectives of the Santa Ana police force, was appointed official court interpreter for the case by Judge Allen, after a protest against the appointment of Charles Carrillo had been entered by W. Maxwell Burke, attorney for the defendant. Attorney Burke made his objection on the ground that Carrillo had recently had a libel case against the corporation of which he is an officer, in which Carrillo was beaten; that Carrillo had a judgment against him running unpaid for many months as a result of the case, and that he couldn't go to trial under these conditions with fairness to his client if Carrillo was appointed as interpreter.

Two Auto Crash Trials Started

Trial of the damage action of Helen Overton and Evelyn Wurster against Elton Neel, et al., started today in superior court before Judge G. K. Sevel. Claims totalling $15,400 are set forth in the two suits.

Two young women were passengers in a car operated by Neel, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Neel, when it was involved in an accident at the intersection of La Veta and North Main streets on the night of January 31, 1930, and set forth the assertion that the crash was due to the carelessness and negligence of young Neel and Norman Henderson, who owned the car in which they were riding.

The Overton girl is asking for $9800 and the other plaintiff seeks judgment for $5600.

Huntington Beach Men Jailed Here On Liquor Counts

Charged with driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor, Dave Bethune, 38, of 414 Ninth street, Huntington Beach, was arrested at 2:30 o'clock this morning by Officers Swain and Murillo of the Santa Ana police department when they found him at Fairview avenue and Main street.

W. H. Rinehart, also of Huntington Beach, who was in the car with Bethune at the time, was arrested and booked at the county jail on a charge of being drunk.

Both men will be given hearings today in police court when the charge against Bethune likely will be reduced to reckless driving, it was said.

Brilliant Motif Prevailed at Gay Party

With the advent of the Halloween season comes a rush of parties whose motifs are especially intriguing, and among the most recent of these was that of Saturday night when Mr. and Mrs. Earl McBay were hosts to members of their bridge club, entertaining in Ketter's cafe.

A delectable dinner menu served as an introduction to the delightful evening which followed. Table appointments were very striking, and included nut cups bearing watches and cats, while places were marked by names whose letters were interestingly scrambled. Bright-hued bouquets brimming with golden chrysanthemums and yellow zinnias and dahlias, too, formed an attractive setting for the affair, and were in harmony with the gay costumes worn by the guests.

With the conclusion of the bridge session prizes for high score were awarded Mr. and Mrs. Harold Moomaw, and Mrs. Worth Alexander and Thomas Tournat were consoled.

Those sharing the pleasant affair with Mr. and Mrs. McBay, were Mr. and Mrs. T. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Moomaw, Mr. and Mrs. Orlo Householder, Mr. and Mrs. Worth Alexander, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Tournat, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Smith, and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth King.

Club Members Enjoyed Meeting in Bittle Home Saturday

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Bittle were hosts to members of their bridge club Saturday night, entertaining in their home at 1316 West Washington avenue. That colorful Hallowe'en motif, now so popular, prevailed throughout the evening.

When bridge scores were added on the clever little tables, it was revealed that Mr. and Mrs. Barney Brock held high scores and Mrs. Philip La Londe and Doc Terrell, low. Appetizing refreshments evidencing the chosen color scheme were served at a late hour.

Those present other than Mr. and Mrs. Bittle were Mr. and Mrs. Barney Brock, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Neer, Mr. and Mrs. Philip La Londe, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dane, Mr. and Mrs. Noble Watson, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Lepper, Mr. and Mrs. D. Terrell, of Long Beach, and Mrs. Ruth Bishop.

Talented Reader Makes "Cyrano" Live Again For Ebell Women

Although regretting that illness made it impossible for Mrs. William Hunnewell to fulfill her engagement to present "Richelle" yesterday afternoon for the general meeting of Ebell society, the members felt amply repaid for their presence in the clubhouse auditorium, when Miss Ruth Jensen of the U. C. L. A. extension lecture course, was presented as a substitute for the expected speaker.

Miss Jensen followed her introduction by the club president, Mrs. Robert G. Tuthill, with the explanation that she had not known until noon yesterday, that she would be called upon to fill the engagement left vacant by Mrs. Hunnewell's sudden illness, but no explanations were needed by the audience after it had settled down to a complete enjoyment of the artistry of the reader. For Miss Jensen brought to her presentation of Rosland's "Cyrano de Bergerac," a keen appreciation of the subtle humor, the clever characterizations and romantic development of the famous Rosland play, together with a dramatic ability that made the characters come to life on the stage of Ebell auditorium. And it was due to her excellent command of her subject, and pronounced dramatic ability, that the clubwomen felt that the afternoon had yielded them fully as much enjoyment as they had anticipated from Mrs. Hunnewell's presence.

Prefacing the program feature, was a business meeting of many interesting details including reports of various chairmen. One of the most important of these was given by Mrs. W. E. Watkins of the Garden section, who announced that the autumn flower show had netted the society a profit of nearly $184.

Mrs. Tuthill called attention to future club affairs, including the series of public card parties for the benefit of the Day Nursery section which will be sponsored. These will be given on the first Monday after-noon of each month, in the pea-cock room of the clubhouse. She also spoke of Day Nursery needs, especially of sewing material, and asked that each Ebell member bring a remnant of some material, as the price of admission to the next general meeting.

This program, she explained, would offer an illustrated lecture on India with a film taken in the midst of the native life, showing tiger hunts, jungle scenes, the Ganges river, and all the strange life of that distant country. The first of November meeting will bring Mrs. Jack Valley and her delightful book reviews, and many other equally interesting features were promised for the winter months.

The president also told of the loan of a grand piano for the pea-cock room, through the kindness of James Willis Rice, who has proffered the use of the piano which had belonged to his mother, which had belonged to the society, a leading member of the society. With the piano, Mr. Rice included the handsome piece of brocade which had long served as its cover, and which had been a gift from the Emperor of Austria, to Madame Helene Modjeska.

Mrs. Emrys D. White made a brief announcement of the dates of November 21 and 22, when the Ebell society will present the Moroni Olsen Players in St. John Ervine's "The Ship," in the clubhouse auditorium. She asked the full support of the members, pointing out how privileged the society should feel to be able to present these talented players.

Mrs. M. M. Holmes, curator, asked those interested in the forming of two new sections, a nature study group and a health education group, to communicate with her.

Two approaching federation dates were announced and delegates for the county federation were named. This meeting will take place in Costa Mesa on October 24, and delegates or alternate reservations through Dr. Margaret D. Baker, delegation chairman, by October 22.

Those named to serve the club as delegates were Dr. Margaret D. Baker, Mesdames J. M. Cloyes, C. F. Crose, C. E. Blacow, J. W. McCormack, Edward M. Nealley, W. W. Crozier, A. Thordyke, W. W. Gay Group Assembled in Compliment to Bride-elect Concluding the series of delightful parties given by close friends of Miss Fern Flood since announcement was made of her engagement to Norman Pixley, was an interesting affair given last night in the Fred C. Silver home on Myrtle avenue, Tustin, with Miss Wilma Silver and Miss Nelle Bales as hostesses.

While the majority of the engagement affairs complimenting the popular bride-elect have had bridge as their special entertainment feature, last night's hostesses departed from this rule when they directed their guests in a series of amusing contests. The first of these was a "kitchen quiz" in which Miss Lois Walker scored high, and was rewarded with a charming bridge set. A form of bridal anagrams offered an exciting interval, and Miss Boyd Joplin, leading her sister players, was presented with a tray cloth in Chinese cross-stitch.

For the remainder of the merry evening the guests gave their attention to needlework, and some hemmed cheesecloth dusters while others fashioned hot-dish holders from a pretty green material that will harmonize with the green kitchen over which Miss Flood will preside after her marriage.

In serving their delicious two-course supper, Miss Silver and Miss Bales chose the daintiest of Cecil Brunner buds for table decorations, seating their guests in the merry group in the dining room. The varied events of entertainment and supper led to the climax of presenting to Miss Flood the charming green-glaze breakfast set which was the joint gift of hostesses and guests.

With this as the final shower scheduled for the honoree, there remains only the formal bridal dinner to be presented by Dr. and Mrs. William A. Flood in their home, 1802 North Main street, before the wedding itself, an event of Friday night at 8 o'clock, in the Church of the Messiah.

Those enjoying last night's pleasant affair with Miss Silver and Miss Bales, were their honoree, Miss Flood; Mrs. Walter Benedict, Miss Lois Messler and Miss Ruth Hamill, of Pasadena; Miss Frances Battey, Miss Boyd Joplin, Miss Lois Walker, Miss Sherwill Spurgin, Miss Mildred Vieira and Mrs. E. M. Sundquist (Velma Miller).

Santa Ana Co-ed Made President of Her College Class

Friends of Miss Vivian Herr, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. V. Herr, 606 North Ross street, will be interested to know that Miss Herr was recently elected president of the Freshman class of women at the dental college at the University of Southern California.

Miss Herr attended Santa Ana high school, and was a student in the Santa Ana junior college last year. She is taking the two-year course offered at the university, preparatory to becoming a dental hygienist.

Santa Anans Shared Pleasant Dinner Party

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard G. Swales of 2366 Riverside drive, were among the guests at a dinner party which Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Remington gave last night in their bayfront summer home at Balboa.

Mr. and Mrs. Remington are persons who find the seaside resort so delightful that they are reluctant to bring their stay there to a close and return to their home in the Crown City. Their young son, a student at Harvard Military academy, especially enjoys his week-ends there, so they are planning to remain until much later in the season and possibly all winter.

Woodruffs Were Hosts At Dinner Party

Entertaining in their attractive apartment at 805 North Broadway, Sunday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Woodruff were hosts at a pleasantly informal little dinner party. Soft tints of orchid and blue formed the prevailing color scheme which was evidenced in the slim tapers flanking a delicate bouquet of asters.

Bridge occupied the hours following the delectable menu. Those present, other than Mr. and Mrs. Woodruff, were Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Granas, the Mesdames Beatrice and Audrey Granas and A. G. Peterson.

Returned Traveler Appears Before College Y. W.

"I was never more depressed than when I left Peiping in China and felt the horrible conditions of the people," stated Mrs. Helen B. Hell last night as she told members of the Y. W. C. A. of Santa Ana junior college about her recent trip circling the Pacific ocean. Her first stop was made in Japan at Tokio and then in the north at Nikko, where she found the conditions much improved. She also visited the lovely shrines and temples which have stood there for 550 years. After visiting in China along the coast Mrs. Hell went on to Australia, stopping at Borneo and Manila where she said the heat was terrific and where she experienced her first tropical storm.

In Australia Mrs. Hell found it extremely difficult to understand the form of English language spoken. She felt that New Zealand was the most beautiful country she had ever seen, explaining that it is green all the year around even when she was there in the midst of winter. Concluding her speech Mrs. Hell said she must return to New Zealand even if she never returns to the other countries visited on her travels.

Miss Grace Reeves of Delhi Mexican center told of conditions in Mexican homes and asked any girls interested to come down and help her. She also asked for an accompanist for the choruses they are organizing amongst the Mexican children.

Two charming solos were given by Miss Elizabeth Skiles, "Ecstasy" and "Dusky Sleepy Song," accompanied by Miss Opha Coulson.

During the business meeting following the pot luck supper announcements were made of the proposed "Y" retreat to be held on October 31, November 1 and 2 at Camp Emma Otis. An announcement was given concerning the deputation team that is to visit the different churches in Los Angeles and Orange. Miss Hazel Hushman was appointed chairman by Miss Vernell Butler, president.

Y. W. C. A. members present were the Mesdames Donna Crawford, Marie McGinnis, LaVonne Olsen, Neva McDonald, Virginia Warren, Miss Marjorie Burns, Catherine Harwood, Opha Coulson, Elizabeth Skiles, Myra Bragg, Marian Taylor, Marjorie Arundell, Florence Stanley, Florence Thompson, Lois Read, Lucille Crawford, Goldie Peale, Dulcie Green, Jane Cunningham, Marian Parsons, Martha Jane Webb, Care Hymer, Rebecca Neddermyer, Vernell Butler, Irene Sp

Church Sponsors Book Review Series to Begin Wednesday

Beginning Wednesday evening, October 15 at 7:30 o'clock when Mrs. John Tessmann will discuss "The Universe Around Us" by Jeans, the First Congregational church will continue a much anticipated season of book reviews, ending December 10. The church basement will be the setting for the affairs.

The second of these will be given October 22, at which time "Love the Law of Life" by Kagawa, together with a biographical sketch of the author, will be given by McKee Fisk. With October 29 will come the third of the series, "The Ideas of Gandhi," by Andrews, presented by Ray Adkinson.

It is expected that the review for November 5 will prove especially popular, as at this time Mrs. E. M. Nealley will discuss the Pulitzer prize novel, "Laughing Boy," by La Farge. On November 12, "Recent Gains in American Civilization" by Kirby Pace will be presented by L. L. Beeman and on November 19 Homer C. Cheney will cover Dean Everett Martin's "Liberty."

E. M. Nealley will be presented December 3, reviewing "Everyman's Psychology," by Adams. The concluding one of the season will be given December 10, but the book and reviewer will be selected at a later date.

Student Recital Was Interesting Affair

Presenting little Miss Meredith Manley in recital Saturday night, Audrey Isbell Peterson presided at her first affair of the kind since her return to this city following an absence of some time. Her studio and home at 1239 South Broadway were the setting for the entertainment featuring the eleven-year girl who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Manley of this city and Huntington Beach.

Piano solos and musical readings were given by the talented young girl, and among the most well-received of the latter group was "I've Got a Pain in My Sawdust," with Mrs. Peterson accompanying her at the piano. "One Two Three" and "Little Boy Blue" were other readings evidencing exceptional feeling, while Chopin's "Prelude" and numbers by Greig and Mendelssohn proved to be popular piano groups.

IN HILARIOUS COMEDY HERE

Spencer Tracy, Claire Luce and Warren Hymer, in the big Fox Movietone comedy, "Up the River," burlesque prison picture which opened at the Fox Broadway theater yesterday for a four-day engagement. The picture is said to be one of the funniest seen here this year.

JOLSON SCORES IN HIS NEW "BIG BOY"

Al Jolson, accompanied by a group of negro singers, sings some beautiful spirituals in "Big Boy," now showing at the Fox West Coast theater.

Because Jolson's voice is particularly suited to spirituals, and because the scene is so beautifully laid and directed, this is one of the most interesting sequences of the picture.

In his latest picture, "Big Boy," which is an adaptation from the famous stage play of that name which ran for three years with Al Jolson as the star, Jolson proves once more that he is the foremost comedian of the country. He can make his audience laugh with just the way he turns his head and rolls his eyes. Nobody can tell jokes and stories as Jolson can.

He has a few scenes with a horse called Big Boy, which are a riot. He takes the part of Gus, a colored jockey, who rides Big Boy in the Kentucky Derby. Just imagine Gus—at the end of the race saying—"Big Boy won. I went along for the ride."

Alan Crossland, who directed Jolson's very first picture, "The Jazz Singer," directed "Big Boy."

O. Pyle, of Smelter.

Sunday a steak bake at Irvine park followed by an evening of golf was given in honor of the guests and enjoying the evening were Mr. and Mrs. William Keseman, of Ventura; Mr. and Mrs. Carl Snyder, of Buena Park; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Tausch, of Anaheim; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Pickett, of Santa Ana; Mr. and Mrs. Roy Langley, of Santa Ana; Mr. and Mrs. Bayles and Mr. and Mrs. Ben Livesey, of Santa Ana; Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Pyle and Glenn Pyle, of Smelter, and Mr. and Mrs. John Kettler and daughter, Mary Kettler.

tives have arrived here from Jackson, Mich., after an absence of over a year.

Mrs. Charles Calvin is home from the county hospital with her new little son.

Mr. and Mrs. McConnell, of Olin-da, and Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Ray-maker, of Anaheim, spent Sunday in the C. Dunkin home.

B. Buckley, of Santa Ana, was a recent visitor in the Dunkin home.

Miss Margaret Vanderwolf attended a birthday party in the V. Selvidge home Monday evening.

Mrs. Katherine Clarelli and children spent Monday in the home of her sister, Mrs. Lucy Ponchetti, in Santa Ana.

FACTS FOR FAT PEOPLE

Mrs. Betty Luedeke, of Dayton, writes, "I am using Kruschen to reduce weight—I lost 10 pounds in one week and cannot say too much to recommend it. To take off fat—take one-half teaspoonful of Kruschen in a glass of hot water every morning before breakfast—an 85 cent bottle lasts 4 weeks—Get it at any drug store in the world—Millions take this little daily health dose.—Adv.

"UP THE RIVER" ONE BIG FUN FESTIVAL

With some 50 featured players and nearly a thousand extras adding their comedy talents to a basically hilarious story, "Up the River," Fox Movietone Comedy, now playing at the Fox-Broadway theater, is rapidly proving itself to be the laugh sensation of the year.

Based on the illegal but uproarious activities of a team of burglars and jail-breakers whose chief purpose in life is to further a romance between two of their friends, "Up the River" is attracting record crowds to the local film house, and incidentally is establishing a number of stage players as well as many screen favorites as fun makers par excellence.

Spencer Tracy and Claire Luce, both Broadway celebrities, make their film debuts in this laughfest, with Warren Hymer and Humphrey Bogart, William Collier sr., and Joan "Cherie" Lawes in the other featured roles. John Ford directed.

'LONE WOLF' FILM ENDS TONIGHT

An interesting example of what a tilt between a king and queen is like is shown in "Last of the Lone Wolf," Columbia's romantic crook drama, closing at Walker's State.

One of the most delightful features of the plot is that it takes an American—and a gentleman crook at that—to bring peace to the royal household.

No less a person than Bert Lytell, famous stage and screen star, plays the important role of the American in this rapid-moving drama.

The bunch walked 'round the mirror and then somebody said, "Let's take a hike back to Geneva and then get a good night's rest. Tomorrow is another day and there'll be lots of time to play. If we all want to feel in trim, I think this will be best."

"You're right," replied the Travel Man. "We'll sleep real sound and then we can be on our way to some new spot. We've seen plenty here. I think we ought to head for Spain. A visit there won't be in vain. Hay, how about a nice train ride?" That made the Tines cheer.

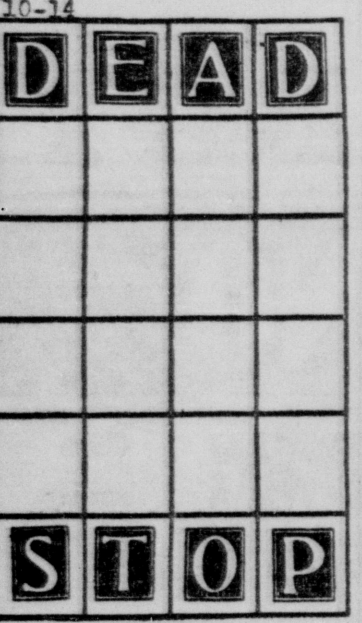

Wee Scouty cried, "That's just the thing. Of walking we have had our fling and if we ride a train awhile, we'll want to walk again. It's really fun to switch around from the air to on the ground. We'll take a train and then a plane. I like that, now and then."

So, into town they promptly went and there a restful night was spent.

Missing Letter Links

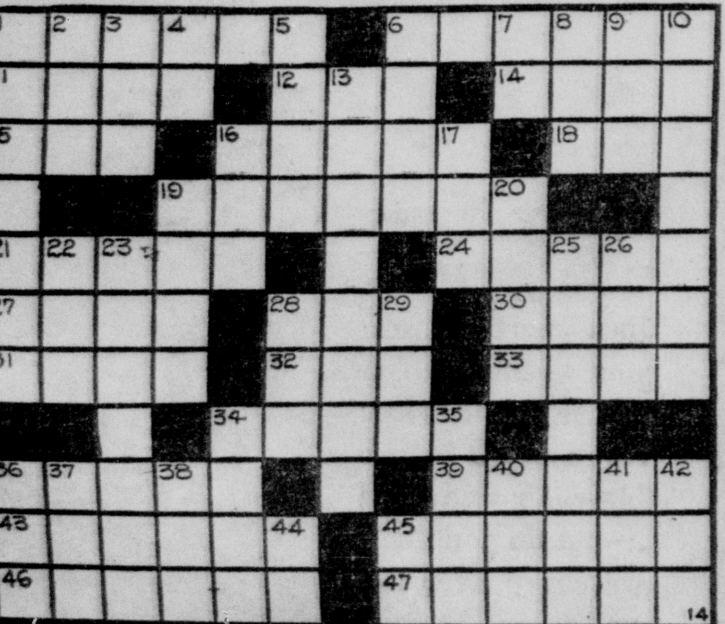

RULES:
1.—In playing golf on the Missing Letter Links the object is to change one word to another in a given number of strokes which is par. For example, to go from TEE to PIN in three strokes sounds hard but isn't: TEE-TIE-PIE-PIN. It's probably more difficult on a real course.
2.—Change but one letter at a time and be sure the word you have used is one in good usage.
3.—The order of the letters cannot be changed.

DEAD TO STOP—This hole proved to be a DEAD STOP in the progress of a few letter links' fans. See if you can shoot a four par.

Russia Seeks to Stop Rain Prayer

MOSCOW, Oct. 14.—Mass prayers for rain by peasants whose crops are in danger of drying up must be stopped, agricultural newspapers demand. The protests show that this ancient Russian custom has not yet perished.
One especially flagrant "insult to intelligence" was reported from the village Petrovskoye, near Kolomna, where priests in gala robes headed a procession of several hundred peasants singing hymns into the parched fields.

EVENING SALUTATION

"Every dollar of work we provide now adds to the security of the home in this time of stress."

—President Hoover.

NONE TO DO REVERENCE

When President Harding died, money was raised by popular subscription to build a memorial over his grave at Marion, Ohio. The memorial has been completed, and was to have been dedicated before now. It was revealed a week ago that the dedication was to be indefinitely postponed. An announcement was sent out by his one-time attorney-general, Harry M. Daugherty, who has been sponsor for the memorial, that he wanted none of the late president's enemies to have a part in the dedication.

It now appears that both ex-President Coolidge and President Hoover had been invited to the dedication, as they naturally would have been. Mr. Coolidge was vice-president under Mr. Harding, and Mr. Hoover was a member of his cabinet. But, according to the reports, both have refused the invitation, and it is authoritatively stated that it was impossible to get any man of national prominence to accept an invitation to speak on the occasion.

This is a sad commentary. We may not accept all the statements made in a recent account published on the death of President Harding of gossip and scandal, but the Ohio Gang whom he associated with himself while president were guilty of so many scandals and excesses that no man of any reputation could stultify himself on an occasion where eulogy would be absolutely called for, especially when the occasion is sponsored by men who brought such public scandal on Mr. Harding's administration. Perhaps it may be just as well that the dedication should never take place. The conduct of the Ohio Gang should be forgotten and not revived.

The retribution which has come to all those who are connected with the scandals ought to serve as a warning that the way of the transgressor is still hard. Harry Daugherty, it is said, is a broken man physically. A month ago, the bank of which his brother was president, and which was supposed to have been the agency that profited by the corruption, failed. Let the chapter close. In the meantime, we note with some regret that the book which records the scandals of the Harding administration, compiled from the diary of one of the gang itself, has been for months one of the best non-fiction sellers in the country. And none of the late president's friends have arisen to challenge the disgraceful accusations made in the book.

AMERICAN INDUSTRIES ABROAD

Mr. Ford, the General Motors Corporation, and other American industrialists are coming in for a good deal of criticism because they are building industrial plants in foreign countries, and using American capital in doing so. We see no reason why these industrial leaders should be criticized for doing this. Capital must have an outlet somewhere. Mr. Ford is already making all the autos that can be marketed here. What else can he do with his surplus capital but send it where he can make it earn something. Were it not for tariff boundaries, all the autos that are used in Europe might be made here. They certainly could be made more cheaply here with our mass production scale, even with the higher wages paid.

Then it should not be overlooked that a great deal of foreign capital is being used for the same purpose here. In Elizabethton, Tenn., the American Glantzford rayon corporation has built mills employing a number of thousand Americans. It is all done by German capital. In Buffalo, the Dunlop Rubber Company has erected a plant costing more than a million dollars to make rubber tires for the American market. It is all British capital that has gone into it. The Shell Oil Company has invested millions here in gasoline stations. This is English and Dutch capital. The Swedish Match Company has invested millions of money here. So it goes.

Why not put a barrier up against the importation of foreign capital as well as foreign goods? No one would think of that for a moment. As long as high tariffs are laid upon imports, our capital will seek an outlet beyond our boundaries. The flow of capital cannot be arrested if there be a surplus. We are not advocating free trade. But we may as well recognize that if tariff barriers keep out goods from a country, and there is a surplus of capital in the country which raises that barrier, capital will immediately migrate where it can be put to work. The political demagogues ought to know that, and if they do not know it they are not worth heeding in anything they say or do.

ABBE DIMNET STARTS TOUR

Abbe Ernest Dimnet, Canon of the Cathedral of Cambrai, and author of the popular book "The Art of Thinking," has arrived in the United States for a lecture tour.

One of the first statements he made after his arrival was: It is better to be shocked by religion than to be sleepily satisfied about it. He is quite right in his statement. Furthermore, it is true about almost any belief or principle or practice. The person who is antagonistic often does more for the defense of principle or belief than the one who is opposed to it for he stirs others up to defend it. But the one who doesn't care enough about the religion he believes or principles or customs he practices either to talk or think about them is an enigma indeed for he is living without thinking. That is only half living.

BASEBALL IN JAPAN

It is said that the future of baseball in this country looks bad. In years gone by every vacant lot seemed to be the diamond of a neighborhood baseball team. Other sports are proving counter attractions. The change in interests is said to have decreased the crowd of fans because when a man in boyhood and manhood has experienced the thrill of being a part of a game, he is a more ardent fan of the sport.

News comes from Japan that the passion for baseball is on the increase over there. Says a dispatch:

Boys playing baseball on the streets have become such a nuisance the police have confined the game to public playgrounds.

The future of baseball in Japan is bright indeed. If the boys are making nuisances of themselves playing the game, there will be men who will want to see outstanding teams matched for a game.

Did you know that 65,000 communities tried Daylight Saving in 1918, abolished it inside of a year, and 63,000 of those communities still refuse to use daylight saving?

WILL NEED RUST PREVENTIVE

Now it appears that Fred Pabst, sr., head of the Milwaukee Brewing Company, is installing $1,000,000 worth of equipment in his brewery to be ready for what he believes to be sure return of beer by a modification of the Federal law.

You must give Mr. Pabst credit for faith in his convictions, but we are willing to prophesy that he will spend a considerable amount of money for the protection of machinery from rust before he is able to legally make beer with it, although the Moderation League, Incorporated, declares the nation is two to one anti-dry. It bases this opinion upon the Literary Digest poll.

It is strange, if this be true, how the "wets" vote for "dry" candidates.

LAS VEGAS EDITOR WROTH

Over in Las Vegas the publisher of a Spanish language newspaper is wroth because, so he declares, someone took the whole nameplate of his newspaper and put out an extra to affect a Republican county convention.

The perpetrators endeavored to use the standing of the paper to put over a story that evidently the ones publishing it did not want to father. The publisher offers the whole sum of $25.00 to find the perpetrator. He ought to have offered more than that simply for purposes of self-compliment.

Broadway's Quilting Bee

Christian Science Monitor

Modern amusements, electrified housekeeping, and office seeking have not taken from woman her love of home making: an old-time quilting bee is being held on Broadway by the New York City Federation of Women's Clubs this week.

The "younger generations" of mill-woven honeycomb counterpanes, so-called Indian blankets and factory-made "comforts" have only added to the charm of the old-fashioned, hand-made quilt. The settings of Aunt Dinah's quilting party were "the pale moon shone" and the Ninth Annual Exposition of Women's Arts and Industries fostered by the federation at the Hotel Astor are as different as the heirloom pieced quilt and the fiber silk broadcloth spread. But the modern woman who cuts goods into minute pieces, places them in beautiful patterns and finally quilts the "top" in an intricate design gets the same satisfaction from her work as did her great-grandmother whose main social diversion was the quilting bee and whose chief artistic outlet was her needlework.

Women now have an advantage in the selection of materials and patterns. They can go to the dry goods store—even to the telephone—and buy fast-color material; they have a book of quilt patterns and may select one from hundreds. Aunt Dinah's choice was limited. She used either bits of worn-out garments that she had woven herself, or she wove or bought white goods and dyed it—blue from wild indigo, brown from walnut hulls, black from the bark of the scrub oak; and yellow from laurel leaves. Her range of patterns was small. She copied one from a neighbor's quilt or "made one up out of her head." Yet the woman who, under modern conditions, attains patience and quietness long enough to produce a well-made quilt is as worthy of praise as her ancestress who had to make quilts to keep her family warm.

One Man Changes Mind About Women Drivers

San Francisco Chronicle

Aha! Traffic Chief Krenl of Evanston, Ill., has had a sudden change of heart about women drivers. A few days ago when he announced a project for a school to teach women motorists how to drive a few remarks crept into print. The ladies, it seems, are inclined to exercise their traditional privilege of changing their minds. They start left and go right and all that sort of thing. We thought at the time that the worthy traffic chief was talking like a bachelor. Since then he has had plenty of mail. Ouch! What a panning! And now he has borrowed the ladies' prerogative and has changed his mind.

Honest, the women are fine drivers, he says. Sixty per cent of the motorists in Evanston are women and they figure in only 7 per cent of the accidents. The only reason he got the idea of the driving school is that the women are such good drivers that they want to be better. And all that sort of thing.

Automobiles No Longer Regarded As Luxuries

San Bernardino Sun

Recently a city that was tearing up a strip of old wood block pavement offered the blocks as fuel to any needy persons who would come and get them. Some surprise was expressed because many of those who called for the free fuel came in automobiles. It wasn't really such an inconsistency as it seemed.

Gasoline is just as important to many families now as bread, and if they got to the pass where they could have only one commodity for a few days, some of them would take gasoline.

The car is useful in getting to and from work; it is useful in hunting a job. Sometimes gas may be had on credit, as street car, bus and railroad fare cannot. Some automobiles still may be simply luxuries; many of them in these days are essential to family welfare.

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

THE GOOD OLD DAYS

I am not very fond of "the speakies"
They lack the fine chances for rest
And to snatch a few naps in the darkness, perhaps,
Which the old-fashioned "movies" possessed.
But mostly I miss the grand titles
Which now and then flashed on the screen,
Such as: "Night tide has gone but comes grandly the dawn
To illuminate the glorious scene!"

The speech of the rancher's sweet daughter
When her heart by hot passion is stirred
And she shrinks at a look from some city-bred crook
Seem far better printed than heard.
I like to see typed in large letters
Which no one can choose but behold:
"Though but humble and poor I can see no allure
In your millions of ill gotten gold!"

I am always moved deeply by love scenes
But when language is tense and profound
And aimed to impart a swift tug at the heart
I prefer it in type, not in sound.
And when lovers were dark and romantic
The silence proved still more a boon,
They could throw their whole souls into love-making roles

But one never need fear they would croon!
One "speakie" I witnessed that pleased me;
It featured an opera star
Who was cast in a part that would exploit his art,
But before it had gone very far
The machine seemed to get out of order,
There followed a whirl and a hum,
And the play went along, but with no words or song
For the hero thereafter was dumb!

HERE ARE HIGHER

OF LITTLE IMPORTANCE

It has been found that brain workers require comparatively little food. But that fact does not tend to cut down the food consumption to any considerable extent.

RECKLESS ESTIMATE

"I had 140 men under me and was sure of the honesty of half a dozen," says a former Prohibition administrator. This sounds like an overstatement.

Russian Wheat

The dumping of Russian wheat is said to have caused a flurry in the Chicago wheat market. It certainly caused a flurry of indignation against Soviet Russia. Unfortunately, it did not cause even a flurry of discussion of the basic truth of the matter.

The basic truth is that the world has a capacity for producing commodities in excess of the buying power of the world. The world market is limited. Every nation is trying, therefore, to export more than it imports. Every nation is engaged in dumping abroad some kind of exportable surplus. In short, there is a world-wide struggle to capture markets which do not exist.

But this is nothing new. Nor is Soviet Russia particularly to blame. The United States has long been throwing its "surplus" products on foreign markets at prices which demoralize those markets.

Suddenly, we have a burst of righteous indignation because Russia resorts to such foul practices. Most indignant of all, apparently, are the very citizens who are stoutly urging Farm Relief bills which provide, on a gigantic scale, for the dumping abroad of our own surplus wheat.

We should make more progress if we could dump abroad our unsound notions about foreign trade. But we cannot, for the markets of the world are already glutted with that commodity.

There is cause enough for resentment over some of the policies of Soviet Russia. But it is stupid to allow our prejudices to blind us. Not only Russia, but every other nation, is trying to dump its "surplus" products abroad. It is a world problem. Basically, it is a monetary problem. For years, the power of the world to produce goods has been outrunning the power of consumers to buy goods. The solution of the problem lies chiefly in adequate consumer purchasing power.

Thoughts On Modern Life

By GLENN FRANK

PICKING OUR LEADERS

From time to time during the last five years I have played with the problem of American leadership in these essays.

Just now the problem of leadership is particularly pressing, as the nation is laboring to lift itself out of an economic depression from which it suspects a superbly able industrial, financial, and political leadership might have saved us.

Because the problem is freshly thrust into the foreground of national attention, I want today to restate, revise, and perfect some of the questions I have from time to time raised respecting American leadership. Some days ago I dealt with the kind of business and industrial leadership the current situation demands. Today let me speak of political leadership.

Let me say again that a simple civilization, like the civilization the founders of our republic knew, could survive even a mediocre leadership, but the complicated social and economic order that we have today cannot. Unless we can discover and commandeer the ablest possible leadership we shall suffer from government that is either corrupt or inefficient and from business, industry, and finance that fall into recurrent depressions.

Here are some questions I think we should ask ourselves as we pick our political leaders, if we expect our political leadership to give us sound guidance:

Should we pick leaders who are like the average American or superior to the average American?

Should we pick leaders who will think like us or leaders who can think for us when the problems at hand are beyond our range of information and judgment?

Should we pick leaders who will lead us or leaders who will follow us?

Should we pick leaders who will clarify our needs or leaders who will cater to our desires?

Should we pick leaders who will vote for some pet measure we want or leaders whose mental capacity and moral courage we can trust to guide them aright on issues in general?

If we answer these questions honestly we shall find ourselves embarrassed by some of our current practices. We have given so much thought to taming and tending our slippery leaders that we have almost forgotten to groom the strong leaders we must have if democracy is to be more than a pointless free-for-all devoid of statesmanlike direction.

The mass-mind, which flourishes in American democracy, has not changed much since some centuries ago, when faced with the problem of judging a leadership, it took its cue from the vested interests of traditionalism and cried out, "Away with this man, and release unto us Barabbas! Away with him, away with him, crucify him!"

Responsible leaders are more needed just now than responsive leaders! Copyright, 1930, McClure Newspaper Synd.

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

THE DREAMER

Dreaming has a place, a respectable place, in the life of a child. Life bears down hard on little children and nature gave them a door of escape into dreamland. Here they rest, live in their imagination, gather strength and courage for the next step in the world of everyday.

Too much dreaming is a signal for an investigation. When a child sits and dreams before a bit of work, loses himself in class, forgets to keep an appointment, it is time to search for the cause. It is plain that the child is escaping from something that seems too hard to bear. We must find what that is if we can.

If he is in school search thoroughly there. What sort of teacher has he? Does he have a harsh and his clash, or are they harmonious. That is highly important. How about the speed at which he is required to work? If it is too fast, or too slow, he will escape to dream. How does he measure up to the rest of the class? Far ahead or far behind? Is there any one subject in which he fails regularly, or one in which he is far in advance? Again there is room for dreaming.

And how about home? Is life there kind to him? Is everybody patient and considerate of the child in their midst? Do they speak gently? Do they deal with him as with a timid soul, one just venturing into a lane of uncertainty and fear? So they remember always that fear is very easily created and very very difficult to allay.

Is he a healthy child? Are you sure? Sometimes bad vision, poor hearing, a gland out of balance, an aching tooth, will cause so much trouble that the child retreats to a safe place within himself. An examination by a child specialist every six months is a safeguard well worth while.

Dreaming beyond the safety point becomes a dangerous habit. It is sometimes carried on through the years and the person so afflicted cannot learn to work. He fails to realize the necessity for work and falls into day dreams. When any situation that seems hard to face arises, he, instead of facing it like a grownup person, takes refuge in dreaming. Habit is hard to break.

When a child dreams of doing things that make him a hero know that he is telling you that he is failing in his daily life and that he needs help to succeed enough to give him a feeling of efficiency. Give him a chance to succeed even if you have to invent ways and means of providing for it.

Try to find a specialty for such a child—something that he can do better than anybody else. There is always something. One lad could blow bubbles better than any other lad on the block and that saved him. A little girl could stand on one foot longer than any of the little girls who were ahead of her in class and that saved her.

Give the child one bit of success to which he can hold and he is well on the way out of dreamland. Find it. You can if you try. (Copyright, 1930, The Bell Syn., Inc.)

BATTLE OF HASTINGS

On October 14, 1066, the conquest of England was auspiciously begun when the Normans, under William, Duke of Normandy, defeated the English under King Harold, at the Battle of Hastings.

Duke William claimed that Harold had agreed to support his claim to the English crown on the death of Edward the Confessor, and, when this was not done, William began preparations to wrest the crown from Harold by force.

Harold had just conquered his brother and rival, Tostig, at Stamford Bridge, and when he learned that the Normans were ravaging the south he immediately hastened in that direction. The Norman army was divided into three parts, the center being led by Duke William in person. Shortly after the battle began the invaders fled and the English, falling into a trap, foolishly pursued. The Norman center repulsed the English and easily won the battle.

William met little vigorous opposition thereafter in his conquest of England. He was ultimately crowned king of England in Westminster Abbey. Possessed of remarkable ability, William ruled strictly, kept excellent order and won success by his own initiative.
